Reds Admit Great Losses In U.S. Attacks in Laos

TOKYO (AP) — A Peking broadcast today reported "great losses in lives and property" from strikes Thursday by U.S. jets and T28 aircraft at targets in eastern Laos held by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

"Many U.S. jets intruded over and reconnoitered Khang Khai, the Plaine des Jarres, Xieng Khoung city, Ban Ban and other places in Xieng Khouang Province at 4:30 a.m.," the New China News Agency said, quoting the Red Laos radio.

"The jetcraft were followed by many T28 aircraft which bombed and strafed Highway 7."

Aside from reporting great losses, it gave no further details.

U.S. Sees More Trouble Ahead With Indonesia

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's closing of its libraries in Indonesia signaled a further deterioration of U.S.- Indonesian relations with possibly more trouble ahead.

Washington officials say they do not expect a formal break in diplomatic relations with the big Asian country. But what the Americans term continual harassment by the leftist Jakarta regime is pushing affairs close to rock bottom.

Citing "intolerable" conditions and five years of attacks on the U.S. libraries, U.S. Information Agency Director Carl Rowan Thursday ordered an immediate end to the whole $1.18 million U.S. information program in Indonesia and withdrawal of the 17 USIA officers there.

It was USIA's first such withdrawal under hostile conditions since the American overseas propaganda program began after World War II, U.S. officials said.

The Indonesian government had already put out of operation the five USIA libraries and reading rooms. U.S. authorities are considering giving the 60,000 books to Indonesian universities.

GT Reporting Praised as Seminar Ends

Two weeks of intensive study ended here this morning when the closing cermony rang the curtain down on the final scene of the National Security Seminar.

The seminar was held in City Auditoroium, sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce, and presented by the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

On hand for the final ceremony was Lt. Gen. August Schomburg, Army, commandant of the college, which is located at Ft. Lesley J. McNair, Washington.

The final lecture of the seminar was given by Col. Robert R. Ploger, chief of the six-man "Gray Team" which presented the lectures. He recently was nominated for brigadier general.

The seminar included 33 lectures and 17 films, all dealing with national security in one way or another.

Central theme of the seminar was the scope and intensity of the Communist threat to the freedom of America and the rest of the free world, as well as that part of the world that remains uncommitted, and the dynamic response this nation and its allies are making to blunt, then turn back the Communist thrust.

More than 2,000 people attended the ceremony. Included in that number were local citizens, some using their vacations to go to school, some taking in an occasional lecture when they could get away from their work, housewives doing the same thing, students from Colorado College and some of the high schools in the area and Army, Navy and Air Force reserve officers, as well as officers from the military establishments in this area.

Reserve officers, taking the course as part of their reserve training included local officers and others from the midwest, Colorado and other Rocky Mountain areas, and as far away as both coasts.

Leaders involved in the seminar took time during this week to point out that the Gazette Telegraph coverage of the seminar was outstanding.

"You have done a magnificent job," said Ploger. "I think this is the best job we've seen. The only other seminar that could come close to this was the one we held in the Los Angeles area."

Norman Colman, past president of the Chamber of Commerce and the chamber's chairman for the seminar, said, "this is a great job. You fellows have done a fine job of covering this, and we appreciate it."

Bill Smartt, a past president of the chamber and local real estate developer who is a reserve Air Force officer, said, "You've done a fine job. We've had an excellent seminar, and all of us connected with this appreciate what you have done."

Some of the officers attending the seminar have made arrangement to buy copies of the Cazette for the past two weeks to take home with them so that they can clip the stories about the lectures.

Security Is Everybody's Business, Seminar Is Told

National security is everyone's business, Col. Robert R. Ploger said in the summation of the National Security Seminar.

Ploger especially urged every person who attended the seminar to continue to participate actively in examination of current problems of this nation.

He reminded the audience of the definition of national security:

"That condition of a nation when it is reasonably free from possible military invasion or attack — or free from effective political or economic sabotage, to the end that it remains able to pursue its national objectives without encountering effective outside interference."

Ploger said that in contrast to the nation's readiness of its military force-in-being, the passive defense measures reflected in the Civil Defense posture are less than desired.

In the economic area, the colonel said, the United States still has economic problems, though the United States is at the forefront of the world in economic progress. However, he pointed out that a vigorous search is being made for answers to those problems.

"There are obstacles to the accomplishments of our aims on the international scene, and these point up that we should continually review our own approaches to problems, searching for better insight into the thinking, habits and forces that act on other nations," he said.

The United States enjoys one of the most favored strategic positions on the globe, but it is finding itself and its future inextricably tied to the world outside of its borders, he explained.

He said that he "hoped" the seminary had given those attending sufficient facts to help them arrive at more considered, reasoned and reasonable judgments."

U. S. Newspaper Circulation Is Increasing

NEW YORK (AP) — Editor & Publisher reports daily newspapers in the United States increased their circulation during 1964 by 1.5 million copies, the largest single annual increase since 1946.

The trade magazine's figures were made public Thursday night and are contained in the 1965 Editor & Publisher International Year Book, which now is on its way to press.

Total daily circulation for 1964 averaged a record 60,412,266. This is a 2.5 per cent increase over 1963 and 20 per cent higher than the first postwar total in 1946.

Total morning paper circulation increased about 900,000, or 3.8 per cent to 24,364,734, while evening paper circulation increased about 600,000, or 1.6 per cent to 36,047,532.

In the Sunday field, 561 newspapers showed a circulation of 48,383,019, a grain of 1.5 million, or 3.2 per cent over 1963.

Golden Eagle Escapes Into London Town

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) —The hunt for Goldie the eagle spread across snowbound London today amid growing demands that the fugitive go free.

Goldie, a 7-year-Finnish golden eagle, is now on his seventh day of freedom from London Zoo. He abandoned the trees of Regent's Park Thursday and was last seen flapping around London's Northern suburbs. The zoo appealed for anyone spotting him to give a call.

Telegrams and calls poured into the zoo with ideas on how to catch him. But some callers demanded his keepers give up the chase.

"Set the eagle free," said one telegram signed "bird lover."

The Guardian, sonorous voice of the Liberal party, said "There can be no argument that a free eagle in London has provided more entertainment than a caged one ever did. There will be no cheers when (or if) it is captured."

The Guardian suggested that Goldie's mate be freed also, and perhaps they'd build a nest on the crag-like walls of the houses of Parliament.

Goldie, the Guardian argued, has done no harm, despite his angry confrontation with a dog.

"The imperial rebuke administered to a yapping terrier was understandable," the paper said. "And the idea that eagles snatch babies is mere legend."

The zoo dismissed most of the suggestions for trapping Goldie.

They included: Sending up a balloom baited with small pieces of meat. The eagle's talons would burst the balloon and the great bird would fall to the ground with surprise.

Shooting him down with a tranquilizer dart.

Scooping him up in a net lowered from a helicopter.

The old pheasant poacher's trick of burning tarred rags under his roosting place. The bird is supposed to fall into the poacher's pocket.

The zoo's own methods have included dazzling the bird with searchlights while keepers tried to grab him from a fireman's ladder hoisted into his tree. Goldie saw it coming and flapped away.

Town Looks Like Battlefield in Pipeline Blast

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — A rural home area near this peaceful northwest Louisiana town looks like a war-torn battlefield today.

Five homes are leveled, cars lie in melted heaps, and 17 persons are dead after a geyser of flame erupted from an underground natural gas pipeline explosion Thursday. The dead include nine children.

"All Louisiana citizens mourn the terrible loss of life," said Gov. John McKeithen. "It is imperative that all resources at the command of this state insure that something like this does not happen again."

Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. officials said only a laboratory analysis might tell what ruptured its 32-inch pipeline.

Viet Cong Smash Jungle Defenders Near Saigon

By EDDIE ADAMS
AP Photographer

XUAN LOC, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Communist Viet Cong apparently have won both another military and psychological victory in the jungled stretch 50 miles east of Saigon where they smashed government forces at Binh Gia in December.

U.S. advisers said the Red guerrillas overran the town of Rung-La at sunrise Wednesday morning. A 125-man regional government force was stationed in Rung-La; a Vietnamese officer said 16 were dead, 22 wounded and "many" missing.

A thousand men of the 3rd and 6th South Vietnamese Airborne Battalions were airlifted Wednesday afternoon to a plantation 15 miles east of Xuan Loc. The column did not set out for Rung-La until Thursday, and then it was called back without explanation.

By Thursday night, it still was not known if government troops had entered Rung-La. The Viet Cong seemed to have melted back into the jungle. Civilians pressed into service as litter bearers brought 20 bodies to government trucks parked on a nearby road.

As helicopters brought in the 1,000 paratroopers Wednesday, it was clear the Vietnamese commanders were not going to take any changes by moving piecemeal in an area where travel in small units often has proved suicidal.

Instead they waited until the force was fully formed then camped for the night at the plantation.

The spector of Binh Gia hung over the jungle. The paratroopers knew they were not far from the place where 500 of their comrades were killed, wounded or taken prisoner by Viet Cong forces in the last week of 1964.

When the force finally moved out Thursday morning, the 3rd Battalion worked both sides of arterial Route 1 as flank guards, preparing the way for the 6th to move along the road.

There were fresh signs of the Viet Cong everywhere. The paratroopers came repeatedly on newly dug emplacements and scraps of food.

After the relief force had moved about five miles, a jeep roared up.

"It's been called off," an American adviser yelled. "You're supposed to go back."

The paratroopers went back to their bivouac to await orders. U.S. advisers with them, already wondering why the operation had moved so slowly, were stunned by the decision to turn back. Many were bitterly angry.

It seemed the Viet Cong was still firmly in control of the area.

Kremlin Caught in Squeeze on Viet Nam War Policies

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
A.P. Special Correspondent

Moscow's latest protest note to the United States has an urgent ring, suggesting that pressure on the Kremlin is coming close to intolerable in view of the American air attacks on North Viet Nam.

The note said the bombings "undermine the foundation on which alone can be cultivated relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States, namely peaceful coexistence." Moscow is in effect saying that U.S. policy in Viet Nam is making it increasingly difficult for the Kremlin to adhere to its current course.

The protest seems to hint that if the air attacks continue, the Russians might be forced to make a move. As yet the Kremlin has refrained from indicating what move it might make. Perhaps it will step up its efforts, in concert with France and others, to bring about some sort of Geneva conference.

The impression of Soviet nervousness is difficult to escape. The note seemed almost to be begging the United States to ease up on the pressure. Washington, it said, "must be aware of the far-reaching consequences the developments in Viet Nam may have for the international situation as a whole and for Soviet-American relations in particular if the United States sticks to its present course."

With each American foray against North Viet Nam steam is added to the pressure on the Kremlin. This comes while international Communist leaders are meeting in Moscow in an attempt to unravel their compli-

More 'Noise' Featured in Newer Toys

By PHILIP J. KEUPER

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's toy industry has taken aim at that spot under next December's Christmas tree and it hopes to land there with a bang. Already it sounds like a noisy one.

More than 900 of the nation's 1,500 toymakers are showing their 1965 lines and they feature toys that huff and puff, roar, chug, groan and scream.

There are pistols that shoot screaming plastic grenades, sonic blasters that pop a ball of air 50 feet, cement mixers that sound like the real thing, one-man bands and ingenious devices that offer a miniature machine shop.

"We're not trying to make parents mad," says Charles Marx of Louis Marx & Co., one of the biggest toy producers. "We're just adding realism."

Realism or not, some noisy toys will have switches capable of lowering or cutting out the sound.

This is its 62nd annual toy fair, which runs officially from March 8 to 13 in the heart of the toy industry on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue. Many of the expected 10,000 buyers have already arrived to look over thousands of toys ranging from 10-cent soldiers to $49-road-racing kits.

If noise is one theme, espionage and glamour appear to be others. One company hoping to take advantage of the craze for spy entertainment offers a toy transistor radio that becomes a plastic rifle, a camera that doubles as a pistol and a double-point pen that writes secret

Rusk Defends U. S. Policy Of Continuing Viet War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk reports to Latin-American ambassadors on the Vietnamese war situation today in a developing drive to rally wider international support for the U.S. stand in Southeast Asia.

The State Department announced Thursday night that ambassadors from Latin-American nations had been called to hold similar meetings late today and that Rusk and other top officials "expect to hold similar group meetings with the ambasadors of other counrties."

In a speech Thursday night in New York, Rusk said Communists in Southeast Asia, fearing the "suicidal risks" of open attack, have "fallen back on aggression by the infiltration of arms and trained men across national frontiers."

"A clear and unequivocal recognition by the rest of the world that this is a form of aggression is long overdue," Rusk asserted.

Much the same kind of point was made in the White Paper on the Vietnamese War which the State Department issued last Saturday. The report declared that "the war in Viet Nam is a new kind of war, a fact as yet poorly understood in most parts of the world."

Rusk was expected to tell the ambassadors, as the White Paper asstered, the United States considers the war being waged by the Communists against South Viet Nam an

Reds May Plan 'Second Front' On Cyprus

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — While world attention is nervously focused on the ominously spreading war in Viet Nam, Russia is pulling off another menacing military build--up on strife-seething Cyprus — strategically located on the southern flank of NATO.

Unnoticed last week, nine Soviet Komar class PT boats arrived at Cyprus from Alexandria, principal Egyptian naval base.

The powerful Komars, with a speed of around 40 knots and equipped with both torpedoes and missiles capable of being armed with nuclear warheads, were manned by Greek Cypriots and Russian "technicians." The former were trained in Alexandria, where the PT boats were shipped for delivery to Soviet-leaning Archbishop Makarios.

310 Windows of U.S. Embassy Are Shattered

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — There were 210 ink stains splotching the tan walls as high as the fifth floor. 310 windows had shattered panes, nine pairs of drapes were ruined and two U.S. shields damaged.

But the Soviet police guard outside the U.S. Embassy was back to four today and business returned to normal following a day of wild student attacks on the 10-story building.

The attacks by Red Chinese and Vietnamese students denouncing U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam was followed by an exchange of protests between the U.S. and Soviet governments.

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler told Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that police protection had been inadequate to deal with the rioters who were scattered only after army reinforcements moved in.

Gromyko apologized for the attack, promised the Soviet gov-

U. S. Reds Plan Attempts To Discredit Viet Policy

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — (Special) — The U.S. Communist Party, on direct and explicit orders from Moscow, is conducting a highly organized and aggressive campaign to discredit and thwart the government's policies in Viet Nam.

Special targets of this drive are universities, "peace" and liberal groups, and leftwing elements. They are being extensively used in the Reds' plans.

Playing a forefront role is the party's youth organization — W.E.B. DuBois Clubs. These are being covertly manipulated to foment and lead denunciatory demonstrations and declamations of various kinds, particularly by educators, clergymen, students and women.

Congressional investigators, who have had this conspiracy under scrutiny for some time, are convinced that not since the Korean war have the Communists seized upon an issue with such vehemence and vigor as the Viet Nam crisis.

On the basis of the mass of evidence so far uncovered, the probers have determined that five major objectives are at the root of the Reds' far - flung plot:

1) To weaken the U.S. position in Vietnam, and thereby bolster that of Moscow, Peking and Hanoi.

2) To surreptitiously gain a hold on non - Communist elements which for their own special reasons are critical of U.S. activities in Viet Nam. Aim of the Communists is to maneuver the strength, influence and resources of these forces to their own ends.

3) Through the vigorous anti-Viet Nam agitation to build up the party's structure, funds, membership and contacts with non - Red groups and individuals.

4) To portray the party, especially to pacifist and leftwing elements, as the "protector of freedom," the "guardian of

663 'Flying Objects' Remain Unidentified

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 18 years of investigating flying objects reports, the Air Force lists 663 sightings as unidentified.

The latest Air Force report, made available to The Associated Press today, showed that 8,908 reported sightings were investigated from 1947 through 1964.

The Air Force evaluated the reports either as identifiable, lacking in data to permit an evaluation or unidentified.

The Air Force report said a sighting is considered unidentified when: "A report apparently contains all pertinent data necessary to suggest a valid hypothesis concerning the cause or explanation of the report but the description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomena."

So far, the report said, these firm conclusions had been reached in 18 years of chasing down reports of unidentified flying objects:

1. No such object reported, investigated and evaluated by the Air Force "has ever given any indication of threat to our national security."

2. No evidence has been submitted to or discovered by the Air Force that sightings classed as unidentified "represent technological developments or principles beyond the range of present day scientific knowledge."

3. There has been no evidence indicating that any of the unidentified sightings are vehicles from beyond earth.

The Air Force said that it "does not deny the possibility that some form of life may exist on other planets in the universe." However, it said, it has neither received nor discovered "any evidence which proves the existence and intraspace mobility of intraterrestrial life."

Most of the sightings over the past 18 years have been checked out to be such things as balloons, birds, kites, searchlights, missiles, aircraft navigation and anticollision beacons, jet engine exhausts, astronomical bodies and meteors.

"There are no films, photographs, maps, charts or graphs of unidentified flying objects," the report said.

"The only photographs that have been submitted have been determined to be a misrepresentation of natural or conventional objects or hoaxes," it said.

There was a total of 532 sightings in 1964 — the largest number since 1961 when there were 585 sightings. Only 16 of those reported to the Air Force last year are still classed as unidentified.

Most proved to be satellites.

The investigation of unidentified flying objects is the responsibility of a special "Project Blue Book Office" at Wright-Paterson Air Force Base in Ohio.

Mississippi College Gives Up Federal Aid

CLINTON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi College, the state's oldest senior college, refused Thursday to sign a civil rights compliance pledge to insure federal financial help.

The move cost the Baptist institution more than $200,000 to students under the National Defense Act loan program.

B. C. Rogers of Morton, chairman of the board of trustees, said, "Mississippi Baptists have always believed in separation of church and state and the board didn't feel that they could conscientiously depart from this life-long commitment."

"The trustees hope that they can raise sufficient funds from private sources which will permit students who are in financial need and who wish to attend Mississippi College to do so."

Addition to Medicare Bill Being Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) The House Ways and Means Committee is considering an addition to the administration's bill for hospital care for the elderly.

It would provide for a voluntary insurance plan paid for at least partly by the recipient, and include items not now in the administration plan.

The committee's meetings have been closed, but a participant said a draft of the plan has been asked from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The administration bill would provide hospital benefits and convalescent care at nursing homes and to a limited extent in the patient's own home. Doctor bills as such wouldn't be covered. The plan would be financed by a payroll tax, and administered by the Social Security system.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., has countered with an expanded plan, including doctor bills. It would be financed by the federal Treasury and by premium payments from those who could afford them.

Red China-Soviet Union Split Real, Col. Andrus Tells Security Seminar

(EDITOR's NOTE — This is the first of two articles on the National Security Seminar lecture by Air Force Col. Burton C. Andrus on Soviet Russia. The second will follow.)

The split between the Soviet Union and Red China is real, Air Force Col. Burton C. Andrus said in a National Security Seminary lecture.

Speaking on the topic, "Soviet Union," the colonel said, "It (the split) is not a gigantic hoax cooked up by the Communists just to get us off balance. It is truly more than a split, since it has in fact fragmented what was once the Sino - Soviet bloc."

The Soviet Union is a vast and different world, the colonel said.

Making reference to the recent change in government in Russia, when Nikita Khrushchev was booted out as premier and first secretary of the party, the colonel predicted these things so far as the new leaders are concerned:

—Nothing dramatic will happen soon.

—The Soviet Union will take a steadier course, instead of being on a varying course as with Krushchev.

—The world will see the Russians putting forth a hardened anti - United States policy.

—Khrushchev will be remembered in a friendly way. He was the man who took much of the terror out of the Russian system, and changed a basic rule of politics.

That rule was, said the colonel, that the man who lost the power struggle ended up a head shorter than the man who won.

Khrushchev did not kill the men he ousted from office, either the men he kicked out to get the mob, or the men he later ousted when he wanted to get rid of them.

Russia is a large land, occupying one - sixth of the total area of the earth free of water and icecaps (50 million square miles). It has twice the land area of the United States.

Although Russia is the largest single country in the world, it has only 1-14 of the population.

The large size is not all an aid for the nation. It lies far north, with much of the nation north of 55 degrees north latitude.

The Crimea, a southern resort in Russia, is about as far north as Bangor, Me.

Colorado Springs is about 38 degrees north, and only that southern portion of Russia bordering Iran and Afghanistan is that far south.)

Russia has distinct soil zones, shading from good black soil in the Ukraine area to desert in the east and permanently frozen soil in the north.

The rainfall pattern is little help to Russian agriculture, the colonel pointed out.

As Russia is in the Northern Hemisphere, it must depend on moisture coming to it from the west, off the Atlantic Ocean.

The moist winds that come in off the ocean must first pass over Europe, and as they cool they begin dropping their water on Europe.

One of the first areas of Russia hit by these winds is that of the Carpathian Mountains. There the average moisture for a year is about 28 inches (That is less than the good farm state of Iowa gets.)

As the storm patterns move eastward, air dries out so that total moisture falling on the Siberian part of Russia is from four to eight inches, it was explained.

Russia is organized into 15 Soviet Socialist Republics of the Soviet Union, with the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic the largest of all, as it also includes Siberia. Others are:

Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, nations that previously were under Russian control and became independent after World War I, and again were made part of Russia after World War II.

Byelorussia, known also as White Russia; the Ukraine, the land where Khrushchev made much of his record as a top Communist administrator for Joe Stalin.

Moldavia, Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Turkmen, Uzbek, Taozhik, Kirgiz, and Kazakh.

The people of the Soviet Union are divided into many different ethnic and cultural groups, with 110 different languages represented.

Of that great number of languages, 15 are recognized as official, with Great Russian being the common denominator for all of them.

The slavs are the greatest number of people in Russia — they are a composite of Great Russians, Ukrainians, and Byelorussians.

The colonel broke the population of Russia, down this way:

—Great Russians 123 million.

Ukranians 44 million.

Byelorrusians 8 million.

Baltic nationalities, Lithuanian, Lativian, Estonian, 7 million total.

—Transcaucasians — Armenians, 2 million; Georgians 4½ million; Azerbaijan, unknown.

—Turkic, except for Tadzhiks (Iranians), 27 million.

The division of Russian citizens into racial groups has been a weakness rather than a strength, he said.

One of the things about the Soviet Society worth noting, he pointed out, is that while it claims to be a classless society, it is not so in fact. Andrus gave this sturcture of the society:

—The peasants — about 125 million. "These are supposed to be the dictator of the regime since they are the proletariat, but of course they are not," he said.

—The middle class — about 35 million. These are the skilled workers.

—The upper middle class — these are the managers, engineers, senior editors, senior military men and others with high responsibility.

—The elite — these are the top men in government, the top party members, and total about 1 per cent of the population.

More Changes Introduced in Catholic Mass

NEW YORK (AP) — Members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States introduce Sunday another set of changes designed to make details of the Mass clearer.

The changes are not as vast or significant as those made by the Church last Nov. 29 when English replaced traditional Latin in many parts of the service.

They deal mainly with relatively small details of the ceremony and touch more on the priest's role than that of the worshipers. They are considered of great importance, however.

All of the reforms were laid down in general terms. Details will vary from one diocese to another.

The reforms were authorized by the Vatican Council in 1963 in its monumental "Constitution on the Liturgy."

The long-ranged goal is to bring the priest and worshipers closer together and inject greater simplicity into the Mass.

Omitted in the new service Sunday will be numerous signs of the cross, "amens" out of context and genuflections.

Also missing will be much of the ritual kissing of objects, except the altar and Book of Gospel, both of which symbolize Christ.

Except possibly for a more widespread use of the prayer of the faithful, there will be no additional introduction of English.

Among other parts of the service to be omitted are the 42nd Psalm in the prayers at the foot of the altar at the beginning of Mass and the dropping of the last Gospel. The Mass will conclude with the dismissal and blessing.

One change which probably will disappoint the altar boys is the new restriction on ringing the altar bells. They will be rung now only at the actual elevation of the Host and Chalice.

Bell-ringing was never an act of worship. It served merely as a signal.

Many churches across the country have held demonstration rehearsals in preparation for the new forms.

CAPACITY CROWD

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) —A capacity crowd of 12,500 was assured for the Eastern regional NCAA basketball playoffs March 12-13 at Maryland's Cole Field House. The last ticket was sold Tuesday.

H.L. Hunt Writes

We often hear of the extremes and excesses of the lunatic fringe.

Prior to 1945 anti - communists constantly criticized the liberalism of do-gooders and progressives. Currently the farleft is actively crusading against all right - siders giving them the "guilt by association" treatment.

The farleft are sufficiently dedicated to their cause that they seldom or never feel extreme. An atmosphere has now been created that all opposing communism in the U. S. are "extreme suspects" or cranks devisive to the nation, and to "the public interest."

Better information on the subject of fringes is needed. Men high in public office priding themselves as being conservatives have made statements that communism is the extreme left and fascis the extreme right. This school of thought fails to realize that in their socialistic endeavors the communists and fascists vie with each other in the same direction away from and apart from constitutional government.

Small groups, like the Ku Klux Klan, Minutemen, and others prone to violence, whether or not claiming to be fascists, are not for law and order and patriots should not be condemned for their actions.

Assessing these values more correctly would go far toward nullifying the present spat of name-calling. The lines which are taking form in Viet Nam may become a partial cure for these unfortunate classifications.

Freedom may again soon become fashionable and patriotism profitable, whereby the free world would be saved. HLH

Housewives Compete With Men in Race

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Three housewives don't like the way the men are running the city government of suburban Ferguson, and they are doing something about it.

The women filed as candidates for the City council Thursday and will oppose three male incumbents in the election April 6.

Marilyn Soest, mother of six; Anita Gilbert, with five children, and Ollie Bauer, mother of two, took all 13 children with them to City Hall for the filing.

Mrs. Soest said they are charging the men with machine rule. The women are especially upset, she said, about a plan to place the city library under St. Louis County control.

Total footwear consumption in the U.S. for 1964 is estimated at over 900 million pairs, including imports, athletic shoes and indoor foldable types.

Dr. King to Confer With U.S. President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. meets with President Johnson late today to discuss voting rights legislation and race problems in general.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said that when Johnson and King met last month they agreed to get together again for further discussions.

Reedy said a presidential message to Congress on voting rights was one of the items they would take up. He said the message was still being checked out by the Justice Department.

There's one in almost every group: the consistently negative person. He's never for anything, always against it. His campaign slogan could well be, "It can't be done. So what's the sense of even trying?" He's the guy who jumps into a discussion with one purpose in mind: to criticize and slay the ideas presented. He dampens the spirit of the entire group with his pessimistic outlook.

"There are basically two reasons for this type of attitude: lack of self - confidence and lack of energy," said an astute class officer as he tried to explain this negative behavior. "It's so much easier to be destructive than constructive. It's easier to criticize and then sit back and do nothing. There's no risk involved that way."

Two other young leaders confirmed this feeling.

A youthful university freshman who had a lot of club experience in high school pointed out that the fellows who always veto a project or spoke against it were the "nonenergetic, really lazy" guys. "They didn't want to do the work involved in carrying out the project so they tried hard to convince the rest of us that we should abandon the idea, too."

"Just before every performance, one of the fellows I sing with would start acting up," said a folk singing friend. "He would think of all the terrible things that could happen and work himself up to a point of not wanting to get on stage.

"What it really boiled down to, I finally figured out, was that he didn't think he had a good enough singing voice. When I realized that, I constantly reassured him that he had a good voice and that he would do well on stage. That seemed to boost his ego up a bit; at least he's better going on stage now."

What can you do to get along better with these negative folks?

"Ignore them," said several students. "If it's just one person in the club or group who's complaining about something, put things to a vote early before he has a chance to dampen the enthusiasm of others. Then go ahead with the project. When he thinks success is coming, he'll jump on the bandwagon, too.

"If he's already gotten others to promise to support him," the students continued, "try approaching these folks one by one. That usually helps to swing their votes from 'no' to 'go'!"

"Don't belittle the negativist," advised an experienced club member. "Instead give some consideration to what he's got to say. Often he'll help you to think out the problems you might encounter if you do go ahead with the idea — problems that you'd probably never think of in your enthusiasm."

A student body president stressed the importance of the leader setting a good example for the negativist. With a lot of reassurance he felt that this type of person could derive enough self - confidence to switch from a passive complainer to a more active do-er. Once involved, he would probably stop being so negative.

One of our socially adept pals noticed that these negative folks were often present at parties. "They pretend to be ultra-sophisticated and refuse to join in the games with comments like, 'It's so childish; I wouldn't enjoy it.'

"When this happens, don't poke fun at them," he said, "but go ahead with the games. Later on, ask if they'd like to join in again. If they come in, don't razz them or embarrass them for changing their minds. Instead, quietly accept them and try to see that they have a good time. Then at the next party, maybe they'll be less reluctant to join in the games, a little less negative."

Take a look at your group. Can you spot the negative person? What can you do to help him?

justice" and the "vanguard for a better America." The Reds a particularly eager to gain the confidence and effort of these groups.

5) to sow weeds of unrest and disaffection throughout the country, and distrust and hostility toward the American system and form of government.

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO

At a secret conference in Chicago, Gus Hall, U.S. Communist Party leader, enunciated the guiding slogans of the propaganda crusade as follows:

"Stop the policy of brinkmanship! Air strikes against North Viet Nam are acts of brutal aggression! Cease all attacks upon North Viet Nam! Withdraw American troops from South Viet Nam! Put an end to this undeclared war being waged in violation of the Constitution!"

In the course of this Red powwow, a pad of telegram forms were produced and all present were directed to write individual messages to President Johnson condemning air strikes and demanding withdrawal of U.S. forces.

All these telegrams were then sent to the White House. Later, another batch went to select members of Congress.

The congressional investigators also have ascertained that during the George Washington birthday weekend, some 50 delegates and "observers" from DuBois Clubs in the Middle West held an unannounced meeting at the University of Wisconsin.

Chief topic of this session was U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Those present were vigorously harangued to organize "mass demonstrations" at their universities and home communities.

At the University of Wisconsin, such a protest was led by faculty members and students, some with known leftwing backgrounds. One was Daniel Friedlander, active in the DuBois Clubs in Madison, Wis.

A big demonstration of some 1,300 was staged on the campus of the University of California. Among the Berkeley speakers was a high - ranking national CP leader.

Other demonstrations listed by the probers as definitely Red-instigated are:

—A so - called "silent vigil" staged in front of the Federal Building in Chicago by the "Ad Hoc Committee to End the War in Viet Nam." This was a front for the Chicago DuBois Clubs, which organized and conducted this affair. Known DuBois members distributed leaflets during the "vigil" urging that letters and other messages be sent the President demanding "end the war and negotiate."

—In Los Angeles, a march to and demonstration in front of the Federal Building — organized by the local DuBois Clubs. Also participating were members from the Young Socialist Alliance, Provisional Organizing Committe for Marxist - Leninist Communist Party, Women's Strike for Peace, and Socialist Workers Party. At the Federal Building a number of speeches were made castigating U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Several of the speakers are known Communists.

National CP leaders are endeavoring to launch a "peace march on Washington," similar to the huge 1963 civil rights march on the capital.

Plans for such a spectacular demonstration are under discussion, and strenuous efforts are being made to raise the necessary funds and to enlist the participation of non-Red groups and elements.

As a leading congressional investigator observed somberly:

"All our information makes it very clear that the Communist Party remains a powerful factor in our national life, and the country can expect to see additional Red machinations in their unceasing effort to undermine our internal security."

310 Windows of U.S. Embassy Are Shattered

ernment would pay for the damage and said greater measures would be taken to protect the embassy in the future.

Gromyko then handed Kohler a note saying U.S. "acts of planned aggression" in Viet Nam were "an indication that the United States is embarking upon the road of further extending the war in Southeast Asia."

Such actions, the Soviet note said, "undermine the foundation on which alone relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States can be cultivated, namely the principle of peaceful coexistence."

Reds May Plan 'Second Front' On Cyprus

lion-torn Congo, Gamal Nasser is acting as the Kremlin's funnel for the sinister weapons build-up on Cyprus.

Since last October when Makarios, after a trip to Moscow, opened the way for Cyprus' becoming another Soviet-dominated military outpost similar to Red-ruled Cuba, Egypt has been carried out. In addition to providing training personnel and facilities Egypt has been the transshipping center of large quantities of arms for Cyprus.

In the past three months these have included artillery, mortars, automatic weapons, munitions, communications and motor equipment, including armored cars.

The Komars, whose missiles have a range up to 30 miles, give Archibishop Makarios a small but powerful naval force. According to intelligence, at least three more PT boats are at Alexandria awaiting the completion of training of crews to take them to Cyprus.

Greek Cypriot armed forces now total more than 20,000. Soviet weapons are arriving regularly, principally at Limassol, a port from which the so-called United Nations peace-keeping force is barred by Makarios. Also, a number of Russian "technicians" are on the island and others reportedly enroute — as military instructors and "advisers."

In Cuba such "advisers" man anti-aircraft guns and rockets.

A Soviet KGB (secret police) officials is definitely known to be a member of the Cypriot ruler's staff.

MENACING CONNECTION

In their trip across the Mediterranean to Cyprus, the nine Komars were kept under surveillance by units of the Sixth U. S. Fleet.

No move was made to intercept them.

This was strongly favored in Pentagon quarters, but vetoed by President Johnson on the advice of McGeorge Bundy, special White House foreign affairs assistant. Since last fall the one-time Harvard dean has opposed U. S. intervention in the Soviet military build-up on Cyprus.

Intelligence authorities view this foreboding development as directly related to the intensifying Viet Nam crisis.

They cite a reputed secret agreement between Makarios and Leonid Brezhnev, Secretary of the Russian Communist Party, under which the former allegedly is committed to support the Soviet in its trouble-breeding Middle East and African policies.

According to intelligence, the immediate objective of these disruptive policies is to "open a second front" against the U.S. embroilment in Viet Nam.

are distribution of a USIA magazine which had an Indonesia readership estimated at 1 million, distribution of USIA films, news material and exhibitions. Now only USIA's radio arm, the Voice of America, will remain to broadcast the American official view into Indonesia from a Philippines- based transmitter.

The Jakarta government had seized the libraries one by one after officially condoned mob violence. It had also hampered mailing of USIA material, banished films and allowed burning of books by demonstrators.

Other harassments have been mounted against U.S. diplomats and recently against American tourists too.

Ambassador Howard Jones' wife was insulted last month and a U.S. consul's car stoned. Surveillance has been put on American officials and Indonesian employes of the Americans have been threatened.

The Communist-style campaign against the Americans has forced the United States to weigh ending the remaining U.S. aid program, already cut to less than $3 million a year compared with former annual amounts of more than $100 million. But the American stake is still large in the potentially rich and strategic country of 100 million, and Washington hopes to keep at least a diplomatic presence there.

A pending issue is the Indonesian government's proclaimed plan to take over the U.S.-owned rubber plantations, worth an estimated $100 million.

Another $350 million in U.S. oil holdings have not been seized and may not be cause the Indonesian government gets a big share of the profits.

cated differences. It comes as the Red Chinese heap derision on the U.S.S.R.

Riots in Red capitals against American embassies represent a less than adequate reply to U.S. bombings. The world has a way of respecting power. The rioting, in fact, may serve only to illuminate the reluctance of the Soviet regime to undertake anything more drastic in a Southeast Asian situation over which it has little control.

Even in a quest for negotiations on Viet Nam, the Russians would be up a tree. The Red Chinese have said they will not be party to any negotiations until the last American leaves Viet Nam, a condition which would leave the Americans without bargaining power and South Viet Nam helpless.

If the Russians want to make negotiations possible at all, they would have to have some prospect of influencing North Viet Nam's Ho Chi Minh, who, willingly or not, seems to take his directions from Peking.

The American strategy of bombing the north appeared to have been aimed at convincing the Communists that an attempt to achieve victory over South Viet Nam and Southeast Asia would be far too costly for them to bear.

Until the measured extension of the war to North Viet Nam, with the bombing of alleged staging areas for support of the Viet Cong rebels in the south, the Americans appeared to have little bargaining power in the event of negotiations. The bombings may have provided the United States with considerably more leverage should the Communists decide they are in a mood to talk.

Students Found Guilty of Hitch - Hiking

Three University of Denver students were found guilty Thursday in Municipal Court on charges involving hitch-hiking.

Judge Allan Asher levied fines of $10 against each, but suspended them on condition the boys are not back in court on similar charges.

The students were Dave Bassett, William Jordan, and Bruce McLennan. All were 18 years old.

Marvin Hansen, 26, 402 Lynn Ave., was found guility of careless driving and was fined $10.

Enrique Salas, 44, 2133 S. Corona St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was sentenced to 10 days in city jail.

Judge Asher reinstated seven days he had suspended from a previous sentence imposed against Salas. The sentence had been suspended on condition Salas attended the first "court of honor" meeting Wednesday night in City Hall.

Salas had been released from city jail at 4 p.m. Wednesday but his story as to why he didn't attend the meeting last night was he "ran into a friend" and couldn't get back.

"You were released on your "You were released on your honor to appear last night," Judge Asher told Salas when the man asked for a second chance, "You let us down so you'll have to serve the extra seven days now."

The next "court of honor" for people with drinking problems is slated for Wednesday night in Council Chambers. Presumably Salas will be given his second chance at this time.

Lawrence Thesing, 36, pleaded guilty to drunkenness. He was given 30 days in city jail which the judge said would be suspended on condition he continues on to Fairplay where Thesing said he and his wife were moving. They formerly resided in Denver.

Town Looks Like Battlefield in Pipeline Blast

from South Texas to New England, is six feet below ground. It lies some 150 yards from the devastated row of modest frame homes.

The company said its division chief, W. C. McGee Jr. of Houston, Tex., was in Natchitoches — a town of 15,000 some 75 miles south of Shreveport — to assist survivors, including financial help.

Firm officials and State Police estimated damages to the homes, land, and pipeline at over $1 million.

The blast tore a 15-foot crater knifing 75 feet long and sent a fireball shooting 400 feet.

"I knew what it was," said Corbett Smith, who lives about 400 yards away. "The roar that followed was like a cyclone following. Then, the ground started quivering."

The flames soared for half an hour before Tennessee Gas crewmen could cut off the gas main.

The fire scorched five other homes and a sawmill one-quarter mile away. It turned trees into black sticks and seared the earth of all plant life in a ten-acre area.

"Bodies were scattered everywhere," said Deputy Sheriff D. W. Bryant. "Most of them were burned and charred past the point where you could recognize them."

Fourteen of the dead were from two families. In one house, the blast killed Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rond, three of their children and three small grandchildren.

Sunday Trek to Florence Park Site Is Planned

A Sunday trek to the proposed community park site near the Newlin Creek intake near Florence was arrange by the Florence City Council during its meeting Monday night.

The proposal to establish a new mountain park on the city-owned property was submitted by J. J. Fabrizio and Harley Carmichael and was backed by City Manager Frank Carochi.

Weather permitting, council members will leave the city hall at 9:30 a.m. Sunday to study the area before reaching a final decision.

Fabrizio and Carmichael, appearing before the council as representatives of the Florence Elks Lodge, stated that in their opinion the 40-acre plot of ground north of the intake, running east and west, would make an ideal community park and could be maintained by the city.

It was further declared that the park would be easily available to all civic groups and organizations for summer picnics and outings.

Carmichael proposed that the council select a committee to call a meeting of all organizations within the city to plan the park for summer use.

Councilman B. A. Lopez moved that the council serve as a committee of the whole in spearheading the park plan. The council was unanimous in its response to the proposal.

City Manager Carochi expanded on the idea by noting that the area would be ideal for picnics, baseball, camping, and similar outdoor activities. He noted, too, that a spring is available on the property for drinking water, and that lights, power, and telephone could also be installed without major effort since these facilities now are available at the city's intake house nearby.

Located about 10 miles southwest of Florence in the lush Greenhorn Mountains, the proposed park is covered with prime timber and open park areas.

The city of Florence owns about 180 acres of land in the Newlin Creek intake vicinity, added Carochi. However the creek and caretaker's house would be fenced off from the proposed picnic area.

Fencing is already established in the area which separates city from adjoining private property. The use of some city road equipment would be required to improve some access roads in the proposed park area, but it was suggested that volunteer labor, donated material and park benches would make the park a low-cost operation for the city.

Rusk Defends U.S. Policy to Continue War

"aggression as real as that of an invading army."

It was expected that in coming days Rusk and other officials will meet with ambassadors of Western European allies and with groups of envoys from other areas of the world as rapidly as such meetings can be arranged.

Pressure on the United States to enter into peace negotiations with the Communists for a Southeast Asian settlement has been building up since U.S. aircraft began bombing infiltration bases in Communist North Viet Nam a month ago.

Rusk said in his New York speech, made to a meeting of the U.S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce, that U.S. forces are in Southeast Asia "to help independent peoples resist aggressions."

He said that Laos as well as South Viet Nam has beeen the target of "persistent aggression" from North Viet Nam in violation of various international pledges made by North Viet Nam and Red China.

"Our troops could come home tomorrow," Rusk said, "in the aggressors would go back north and stay at home.

"The defeat of these aggressions is not only essential if Laos and South Viet Nam are to remain independent," he added. "It is important to the security of Southeast Asia as a whole. Thailand already has been proclaimed as the next target by Peiping."

Rusk also denied that the Communist guerrillas in the southeast have any "major popular following." He said they impose their rule in areas they control and recruit men into their guerrilla bands largely by the use of terror.

"Pacification of South Viet Nam would be a relatively simple problem for the South Vietnamese themselves," he said. "If the intervention from the North were brought to an end."

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Russell B. Long said Thursday that advocates of American withdrawal from South Viet Nam "would have us abandon our friends, drop our commitments and surrender our honor."

Long, assistant Senate Democratic leader, told the Senate the United States is "not going to cut and run. It is not going to surrender."

In another Senate speech, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, challenged the accuracy of a statement by Gen. Harold K. Johnson that 75,000 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas have been killed. Gen. Johnson is Army chief of staff.

Too Routine Life Can Bring Depression

A too routine life can produce depression in the tense person, Dr. Thomas Hurley, psychiatrist, told the class attending a series on Family Living at the YWCA Thursday. He recommended new interests, activities and friends for the person who is bored with life.

"I don't endorse the idea so prevalent in our society that divorce and remarriage or a love affair are the way to solve the problem of boredom. Such a solution may make life more interesting but the problems that arise and the feelings of guilt offset any advantages," he said.

The session was the second in a six - session series which is open to the public. Late registrations may be made at the YWCA. The series runs from 1:30 until 3 p.m. each Thursday and is sponsored by three United Fund agencies: YWCA, Family Counseling Service and Mental Health Association.

In recommending new activities to the persons suffering from excessive tension, Dr. Hurley advised, "Don't be a perfectionist in the new venture. If you take up bowling, don't even keep score while you're learning. I've been playing golf for ten years and I still don't keep score."

He said that tension is a normal part of daily life but becomes a problem when it occurs often or is excessive. Tension can have physical manifestations such as ulcers or migraine headaches, he added.

He pointed out that the most important way to reduce tension is through developing the ability to confide in another person.

"The logical person to confide in is your husband or wife, but some people prefer to discuss their problems with a friend of the same sex. Ministers, priests and rabbis are often consulted by persons with problems," he said.

Miss Eileen DeVoss, counselor with Family Counseling Service, who presided at the session, said that this agency is currently working with the clergy in this field.

"So often family problems can be worked out through consultation with a clergyman. More difficult problems can be referred to Family Counseling Service, the Mental Health Center or a private psychiatrist," she said.

Dr. Hurley confirmed her point of view by describing a minister who also served on the staff of a Mental Health clinic in another community.

The minister found that he was often able to work more effectively with troubled persons in his role as minister than in his role as psychologist in the clinic, according to Dr. Hurley.

The session next Thursday, entitled, "Who Wears the Pants?" will be led by Eugene De Bellis, director of Family Counseling Service.

Local Jaycees Increase Dues

An annual dues increase of $4 was approved by members of the Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce, Thursday, at their bi-monthly membership meeting.

The increase, from $16 to $20, was carried by a two-thirds majority in a roll-call vote. A second motion, to charge a $5 initiation fee to new members, was carried unanimously. Both motions were made by the Jaycees Board of Directors.

The first roll-call vote was preceded by nearly an hour of debate on the pros and cons of having a dues increase. Some members felt the Jaycees just needed more "money-making" projects, while others felt both the "money-making" projects and a dues increase were the answer.

'People of South Asia Impatient' Security Seminar Speaker Says

The people of South Asia are impatient for economic improvement now, and do not want to wait for the future, Navy Capt. Carl F. Pfeifer said in a National Security Seminar lecture.

His topic was "South Asia," an area that includes India, Pakistan, Nepal, Butan, Sikkim, Afghanistan and Ceylon.

"The entire area of South Asia is being swept by a revolution of rising expectations," the Captain said, and "whether they fall prey to communism depends a great deal on what we in the United States do, and what we do will be conditioned to a large extent by our understanding of the area."

The peoples of the area are intensely nationalistic and impelled toward socialism by their impatience to shake the centuries from their lives and enter the industrial society of the modern world.

Because of their history, the people are now struggling with the problems of self - government. Except for Afghanistan and Nepal, self-government is new for the area, most of which was under British control until after World War II, the captain stated.

The countries have many problems, varying from land to land. The area is half the size of the United States and has three times the population, he explained.

Further, the whole area is under great pressure from Communist China, for control of South Asia would greatly aid China in its drive to get control of Africa, he declared.

The area of South Asia has seen many invaders — the Persians, the Greeks under Alexander, Genghis Khan and his Mongols, Tamerlane, another Mongol conquerer, and then Moslem Arabs.

More lately, in the 1500s and 1600s, it was the British, the French, the Portugese and the Dutch.

The British gave independence to the area that now is West and East Pakistan, India and Burma in 1947, and to Ceylon in 1948.

Strategically, Pfeifer said that there are five basic facts to be considered in a study of the area:

—The area commands intercontinental air and sea routes between Europe and the Far East, as well as the Far East and Africa.

—The nations have a common frontier with Red China.

—The area is a target for Red China's expansion.

—The area is a testing ground for the Free World in a campaign of counterinsurgency.

—Many materials critical to teh Free World come from this area.

It also has economic problems which keep the living standards of the area low.

He gave these comparisons the gross national product per capita in three of the nations:

Aghanistan is the lowest with $70; Pakistan is next with $78, Indian next with $81, and Ceylon follows with $136; these are far below the U.S. average of $3,083.

Further, he pointed out, those countries also have a great dependence on narrow economies.

The figures for 1960-62 show that tea and rubber were 82 per cent of Ceylon's exports; jute and cotton made up 60 per cent of Pakistan's exports, and tea and textiles made up 54 per cent of Indian exports.

The fluctuation of prices by a cent or two makes a great difference to the economies of the nations exporting those goods since they have nothing else to fall back on, he pointed out.

Other handicaps are insufficient power, poor communications, insufficient food supplies and general economic underdevelopment, he said.

The legacy of colonialism in the area tends to cause the populations to recall the things they did not like about being a colony while they tend to forget that colonial rule brought better laws and better health conditions, it was explained.

Aghanistan is a land-locked country, with mountainous terrain that averages about 4,000 feet altitude, and has hot summers and cold winters.

About 95 per cent of its people live off the land, as pastoral livestock tenders or as farmers. The country is Moslem with Moslem law and has been independent since 1747.

Sikkim is about the size of Delaware, was a protectorate of Britain, and now of India, is a buffer state between China and India and has valuable copper deposits that would be a prize for China.

Bhutan is about the size of Vermont and New Hampshire, is a buffer state, and previously had an agreement with Britain that allowed the British to control its foreign affairs, and now has a similar agreement with India. It at one time barred foreigners, but now is opening up.

Nepal is a Hindu kingdom that is about the size of Arkansas and serves as a buffer state. It has low plains and high mountains and lies about as far south as Florida.

Ceylon, the island off the south-east coast of India is neutral, and has a sharp food problem, as it must import problem, as it must import about half of its food. It now has about 10 million people. If growth continues as in the past, it will have 20 million within 10 years and will then need to import much more food.

Pakistan is divided by more than 1,000 miles of Hindu India. It came into being when what had been India was divided according to religious grounds, with Moslems forming Pakistan and the Hindus and other lesser religious groups forming India.

West Pakistan is about the size of Texas and much of it is desert wasteland, while East Pakistan is about the size of Louisiana and has ample moisture.

The country has a unique control problem, for the split makes no sense geographically or economically, Pfeifer said.

Pakistan has chosen to side with the West and is a member of both CENTO and SEATO, serving as a flaking cornerstone for each.

In its dispute with China over boundaries, Pakistan ceded land to the Communists to avoid trouble.

India is the largest and most complex, it has 845 languages and dialects, 14 of which are recognized as official languages, a booming population which grows at the rate of eight million a year, and by 1977 is expected to have 500 million. It is the second most populous country in the world, behind China.

It has a varied climate that ranges from torrid to arctic, and from arid to the second wettest place on earth, and badly needs water reclamation and diversion projects.

The country, less than half the size of the United States and with more than twice the population, is a "sea of poverty," although richly endowed with mineral reserves, Pfeifer stated.

The nation has the fourth largest railroad network in the world, which is the best in Asia.

Even with its bright sides, India is not able to meet the Communist threat alone, and must have help from the United States, he explained.

"It is important to the United States that India be strong and prosperous," he said, "for if India falters, the lights could go out all over Asia."

The people of South Asia believe in freedom, and the United States must help them develop, for "by helping them, we assist ourselves to build a secure world and perhaps a lasting peace," Pfeifer said.

The new group will be known as the Colorado Council of the Western Electronic Manufacturers Association. C. S. TV Sponsors Vs Networks Being Debated

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Is it better for sponsors or network executives to control television entertainment? There are some people who talk this question seriously, though to viewers it may seem something akin to being given a choice between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston as heavyweight champion.

At any rate, this Friday the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is expected to look into a controversial study proposal that would reduce the near - complete network control of programming to 50 per cent of the shows between 6 and 11 at night. This means the networks could not have a financial interest in more than half the programs presented during these hours.

Sponsors, via independent producers and advertising agencies, would inherit the remainder of the time. Each side claims program quality would decline under the other's system, and they are both probably right.

What, then, does all this mean to the average televiewer? Very little in the sense that on might hopefully expect great improvements from all this fussing. But it is wonderfully instructive to study the talk about "quality" when, as usual, all that is really involved is who gets the money and the power.

This is known as diverting the viewer, a device popular with politicians. For could anything more explicitly suggest the dead-end track of current television entertainment than the absurd notion that sponsor-controlled hours could improve program quality?

Sponsors, of course, control television in a very definite way now too. What is upsetting many persons, however, is the fact that a very few people in network programming control just about everything that goes on the national airwaves as entertainment.

This immense power was brought to mind again this week by the replacement of James T. Aubrey, the most commanding figure in network programming, as president of CBS - TV's entertainment division. Nevertheless, most sponsors, no less than networks, are primarily interested in ratings and money, not altruism, and nothing, but nothing, will change until the basic system is forced to change.

Doc Accepts Ski Racing Challenge

SANDPOINT, Idaho (AP) — A Massachusetts doctor in his 40s has accepted the challenge of the 67-year-old president of the U.S. Ski Association from Spokane to try and keep up with him in a ski race on a snowy Idaho mountain.

Dr. Robert D. O'Malley, Holyoke, Mass., medical advisor for the Mt. Tom ski area near his home, is the author of a medical journal report which says people over 50 shouldn't take up skiing.

Dr. Merritt H. Stiles, who says he took up skiing when he was 55, challenged Dr. O'Malley to keep up with him, Frank Lund, 56, and Earl Jones, 64, both Spokane, in a ski race at the Schweitzer Basin ski area near here.

"I'm really quite envious of the enjoyment Dr. Stiles and company have had in their later years in this great sport," said Dr. O'Malley. "I too hope to stay in shape to enjoy similar thrills in the years ahead."

Dr. Stiles said, "The whole thing will be done in fun."

No race date has been set, Stiles said.

Raincoats Given New Italian Glamor Fashion

NEW YORK (UPI) —Italian tailors have long been some of the most imaginative in the world — sometimes too much so for American tastes. But their new treatment of raincoats could easily start a whole new trend.

The big four of Italy—Brioni, Litrico, Datti and Franzoni — showed a wide collection of men's clothing recently in Florence, including three suits worn by portly gentlemen which raised a strong suspicion they had been tailored for Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The raincoats were the standout of the showings. The fabric in all cases was a wool and Terital (similar to Dacron) or a cotton and Terital blend. The favorite color was a warm cigar beige. All were trimly fitted: the waist was suppressed slightly and there was a flare at the hem.

Sleeves were mostly set in and collars were usually small and precise. But Franzoni showed one with a huge splash of collar in the 19th Century coachman style. It was double breasted and the front, the four slant pockets, the cuffs and center vent were closed by button tabs of the same material.

Litrico found a new way to cinch in the waist in one of his raincoats — a drawstring slotted inside which emerged as a flat belt and buckled in front. There also were drawstrings at the wrists to provide close protection in stormy weather.

Datti showed two handsome coats. A Poplin raincoat featured a double row of bone buttons with inset belt and inverted breast pleats that start from the shoulder yoke seams. Another for town wear was a lightly fitted raincoat in smooth stretch covert cloth. The gimmic there was a deep pleat in the back which gave it the flaring rajah look.

Brioni's raincoats had pajama-striped silk linings. One of the best in his collection was a topcoat in jaspe wool (gray and smokey blue threads twisted together before weaving) and large overchecks in a mustard color. Trim raglan shoulder with angular notched lapel.

All four showed enlongated jackets with natural shoulders, a hint of waist suppression but not the exaggerated waistline of a hacking jacket. Most pants were cuffless, slim but not skinny. Checks showed up in all combinations, with many big overchecks, and coordinates were shown everywhere.

The wildest item shown was a poncho by Datti to be worn only by extroverts — large window pane checks— green and yellow lined in plain yellow or blue overchecked in red and lined with red. They dipped way down fore and aft and were worn with black Apache berets.

In dinner clothes Brioni, famous for his use of silk, showed a jacket in jacquard silk woven in a paisley design. Both Bironi and Datti showed silk jackets in herringbone embossed "tree bark" silk and wool blends. All were slim shawl collars. Colors ranged from plain black silk through green, burgundy and navy.

Brioni coordinated slacks and sports jackets by using the color of the trousers for the upper part of a shawl collar — both solid colors and checks. Franconi had coordinates for cocktail wear — checked jacket and plain pants in the same material. One was a two button double breasted with shawl collar. He also used four cloth tabs to close a 4-button wool suit.

Another Franzoni sports jacket in light beige with yellow and tobacco overchecks had four pockets—two patch pockets and two vertical breast pockets set in like handwarmers.

No hats were shown in the four collections. Many suits were worn with white shirts but there was dusky pink and marsh green for casual wear.

Speaker Says Patent, Brand Name System Under Attack

"Our nation's patent and brand - name systems are under attack from all sides," said Frank Tyree, a sales representative for one of the country's largest pharmaceutical manufacturers. He was speaking Thursday at the regular bimonthly membership meeting of the Colorado Springs Junior Chamer of Commerce at the Hackney Houe.

In a message entitled, "20th Century Piracy," Tyree told the gathered Jaycees of the huge amount of smuggling going on in the drug industry today, and for that matter, any industry.

Research secrets, which take millions of dollars to perfect are being stolen in this country and sold to manufacturers overseas, specifically to Italy, according to Tyree. In bypassing the tremendous cost of research, the European drug manufacturers, with the stolen formulas, can sell drugs at cut-rates.

On top of all this, days Tyree, the U.S. Government is one of the many agencies buying drugs from these foreign sources. It has been going on since our Armed Forces have occupied Europe.

"The tremendous cost for the creation of a new consumer product is unrealized by most people," states Tyree. "It must be recovered in sales of the product," he continued. The government, however, now has a bill before Congress to cut existing patent laws from 17 years of exclusive use by the inventor, to a mere two years. This according to Tyree, takes away most of the incentive for perfecting and patenting anything—the length of time the inventor has to recoup his losses and turn over a profit.

"Drug imports in many cases are out and out smuggling," said Tyree. "And a pharmacy is always tempted to buy at the lowest prices," he continued. Tyree then described how the culprits "bootleg" the drugs into the U.S., then change labels on the bottles and sell them at low wholesale prices, which are often hard to resist.

Some of the drugs involved, according to Tyree, are those which doctors prescribe only under the most rigid conditions.

Tyree told the Jaycees there were two factors which had to change. He pointed out that neither patent nor criminal laws had any statutes against stealing industrial process secrets. The laws of this country, he pointed out, involve only tangible things and thus leave out the theft of patents and trade secrets. "These statutes must be revised," said the speaker.

The second factor to be considered was the indifference of the people of this country. "It's difficult for people to grasp the immense cost of industrial research." He said the people of this country must be urged to do something to stop the government from lessening the patent laws.

Said Tyree, "The U.S. patent structure is threatened and the drug industry has been caught up in the erosion of patent protection."

Tyree related in closing that "since we live in a democracy, the course which is taken must rest with the people."

Much Ado About Telephone at Florence Meet

A move by Jack McFall, former Florence mayor and member of the Florence fire protection district board to eliminate the conference telephone used by the Florence fire department, died on the floor when the proposal failed to receive a second at a meeting Tuesday night at city hall.

McFall, who asked that his statement be entered into the minutes of the meeting, made the following comments:

"Two months ago," he said, "I raised the question of further need for the conference telephone which is paid for by the fire district. As I recall, this board did not take any action when Mayor Cristelli and Councilman Roy Palmer informed us of the city's intention to install an alert system in the homes of firemen. They failed to advise us of the costs and furnish other information as they promised.

"This board spends $351 per year for the Florence fire telephone and the conference telephone. Now comes the city council with an additional $418 per year for an alert telephone in the homes of firemen, making a total expense of $631 per year just to alert Florence firemen of a fire location. I believe the conference telephone is a duplication of the city's alert system and therefore is no longer needed. This $213 per year saved could be used to pay the cost of more important items for the district."

McFall pointed out that board members are elected to a position of trust and responsibility to "provide the best possible fire protection at the lowest possible cost."

He added that the "conference telephone is an administrative problem of the district and not the fire department."

In his motion at the board meeting, McFall said he proposed, "effective March 1, the telephone company be notified that Florence fire protection district will no longer be responsible for payment of the conference phone, that all telephones be billed to the city, and that the district reimburse the city for the cost of the fire telephone for $13.25 per month."

Councilman Roy Palmer and Fire Chief Dan Friend discussed the telephone situation with the board.

Palmer explained that the conference phone is not a duplication of services. He pointed out that firemen who are not at home when an alarm is given can make use of the conference phone, day or night, to determine a fire's location instantly. He also explained that the system now in use in Florence and district has been adopted by numerous communities throughout the state for better fire protection.

Florence firemen requested the dual phone system to offer better fire protection to the community and the district, it was pointed out.

Absolute Power Rests With Small Group in Russia, Speaker States

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of two parts of a report by Air Force Col. Burton C. Andrus on Russia delivered in a National Security Seminar lecture.)

Absolute power rests in the hands of a small group of party leaders in Russia, Air Force Col. Burton C. Andrus said in a National Security Seminar lecture.

He was speaking on the topic, "Soviet Union."

"The citizen has precisely as little positive say in the running of his country as he did in Stalin's day," Andrus declared.

The Communist party, Andrus said, is not a party in the sense of the word in America and elsewhere in the Free World.

The Russian Communist party has about 10 million members, about four per cent of the country's population. The party names all candidates for office not only in party roles but also for all governmental offices, he explained.

The country has about 110 million voters, and they vote either yes or no with about 99 per cent of the voters always voting yes.

Party workers rise from their entry into the party to village activities, on to city and regional party posts and then to the All - Union Party Congress.

A select few who have gotten to the Party Congress are winnowed even more for the next step — membership in the Central Committee, which is the over-all executive group with from 170 to 190 members.

From this group comes the 14 men who make up the secretariat of 14 men, which ranks just below the Presidium which has 12 men.

On top of all this is the First Secretary, the top man in the party and the top man in the government.

Parallel to this party structure is the structure of the government.

This begins with the 110 million voters, who elect officials to village and city soviets. These in turn elect members to the Regional Soviets. The soviets are the governmental ruling bodies, and membership is dual, with, for instance, regional political leaders holding regional governmental jobs.

(In El Paso County and Colorado, the Democratic and Republican county and state charimen hold no governmental positions. — Ed.)

This is divided into two houses, the Council of Nationalities, based on ethnic groups, and the Council of the Union, with almost 1,400 members.

Above this group is a select group of 32 members of the Presidium, which elects the president.

On top of that body is the Council of Ministers, which is directly under the premier.

Generally, the posts of first secretary of the party and premier are held by one man.

Andrus had a blank spot in the chart he displayed on the board while he lectured. He explained that he had left the top spot open on his chart since Nikita Khrushchev was deposed last Oct. 14 by two men he had helped boost — men he had personally selected to top spots in his government.

At this time, he said, the first secretary is Leonid Brezhnev, and premier is Alexi Kosygin. "Never in the history of Communism in Russia have two men long ruled together — sooner or later one man takes both jobs into his hands," Andrus said.

He did not predict which of the two would eventually take over the two jobs, but did point out that it could be a third person who might oust the two now on top.

One thing he did predict was that the loser, or losers, probably won't be shot. "Khrushchev took the terrorism out of Russian life that was designed to control the Russian body and soul," Andrus said.

The break between Russia and China came under the leadership of Khrushchev, Andrus pointed out, and added that break may be papered over to a certain extent by the new leaders, but that the crack still will be there.

Explaining some of the odd things that happen in Communist countries, Andrus pointed out that on Khrushchev's 70th birthday, while he was still the top man, the Chinese Communists sent their congratulations, then called him "stupid" in their offical party newspaper in Peking.

The crack in monolithic communism began in 1948 when Marshal Tito took Yugoslavia out of the control of Russian dicator Joesph Stalin, and got away with it.

Then in February, 1956, Khrushchev denounced Stalin in a long speech, also denounced the inevitability of war and pronounced his theory of peaceful coexistence. This angered the Chinese.

Further, after Salin died, Mao Tse - Tung, leader of Communism in China and chairman of the Communist party there, thought that he should be considered the top communist in the world, Andrus said.

After the communist consolidation their hold on the Chinese mainland, Russia signed an aid agreement with them, and sent money on loans, technicians and other experts to help the Chinese build up their economy and military power.

However, "Khrushchev realized that he was building up a potential enemy and so in April, 1960 he cancelled the agreements with China and called home the 1,400 technicians and their equipment, leaving projects in whatever state of completion they were on that day. The Russians even took the blueprints with them," Andrus stated.

Then Khrushchev insisted on holding the world conference for communist countries against the wishes of the Chinese, the colonel explained.

When Khrushchev was ousted in October, Mikhail Suslov made a four - hour speech against him, citing among other things his errors in the policy toward China.

Andrus pointed out that when the World Communism conference opened this week in Moscow, only 17 of 26 Communist parties invited sent representatives.

While the conference got underway, the premier, Kosygin was in East Germany attending a trade fair, and had just returned from a visti to Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam — a trip obviously planned to show that the Russians are interested in that area, and do not want the Chinese controlling all of South East Asia, Andrus pointed out.

What will happen in the future? Andrus said he didn't know, but two things seemed certain: — The split will have, as it already has had, a splintering effect on Communist parties around the world.

"One thing we know, however, is that there is no advantage in the split for we of the West — they are still communist with their aim of world Revolution," Andrus declared.

City Adds 46.5 Miles Of Streets

The City of Colorado Springs added 46.5 miles to its street system last year, according to official figures just compiled by the City Planning Department.

An unofficial estimate earlier had placed the increase at only about 36 miles, but the higher figure was arrived at after all annexations were carefully checked.

According to the latest figures, there are now 376.2 miles of city streets. Of that total, 104 miles are arterial streets and 272.1 miles classified as local service streets.

Because of the explosive growth of the city, the street system has increased from 236.5 miles in 1960 to its present 376.2 — or almost 140 miles.

El Paso County commisioners Thursday took under advisement bids submitted to furnish vacant offices to be created in the Welfare Department by the expansion.

Six bids were opened and read by Norman C. Foote, chief deputy to the commissioners. He said delivery date on the office furniture is on or about March 29. Alternate bids were not requested by commissioners.

Workers under the plan pay a monthly rate of $25.10, the same for employes under County General and in the Welfare Department.

Chairman Keight McBurney said assistance may have to be shared between the county and state and that any aid will have to be allocated with the budgeted year.

There are 56 members of Blue Cross in the Road Department of 131 eligible. Their hourly wages fall between $1.76 and $2.44. In County General there are 134 enrolled of 286 eligible and 38 of 74 eligible for coverage are enrolled in the Welfare Department.

The Health Department, it was pointed out, pays a monthly rate of $20.60. There are 30 of 50 eligible persons in the Health Department covered by the medical plan.

City Planners To Consider 12 Zoning Requests

Most requests to the City Planning Commission are to change zoning to allow heavier use of land.

This will be considered by commissioners, with 11 other requests, at the regular City Planning Commission meeting, 3 3 p.m. Thursday in City Hall. Sixteen other items will be heard March 11, due to the length of the agenda. Other items for Thursday's meeting are:

County Board Approves Appeal

The El Paso County Board of Adjustment approved one petition and appeal at a special hearing Thursday afternoon in the County Office Building auditorium.

Petitioner was Harold Whitney of 3 Commons Road who requested permission to construct an addition to an existing non-conforming dwelling in an R-Residence District partly within a rear yard setback that does not conform with the zoning resolution.

The addition measures 24' x 38' x 36' x 21' and is to adjoin a second structure on Whitney's property. The petition was approved due to the odd shape of his lot and topography.

Civitan Club Sale Yields $7,000 for Rehab Center

Proceeds from the Civitan Club's annual holiday fruitcake sale to benefit the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center amounted to $7,000, club president Hugh Stewart announced Thursday.

This was three and a half times the amount collected in 1957 when the service club inaugurated the benefit for Hope House.

At the club's recent meeting, an additional gift of a "Stimulator," was presented to the center's executive director Dick Olson in memory of the late Lawrence M. Cowen, a Civitan member.

On accepting the gifts, Olson cited the work of the Civitans during the past several years. "The unselfish giving of time and effort is truly an inspiration to all of us who have the pleasure of working in a day to day relationship with our patients, and also to the patients who are served by your generosity," he told the Civitans.

S. Woody Ritz, Civitan vice president and cake sale chairman, said the service club's members "are grateful for the wonderful cooperation of the broadcast stations, the press, and the many merchants who made this sale a success."

"And we thank the people of the region for their enthusiastic response to our sale," he added.

The SnowTones, a quartet of the Sweet Adelines, entertained guests at the club's meeting to announced the results of the holiday sale. Orris Dott, building fund chairman for Hope House and a Civitan, introduced the quartet, and noted that the Sweet Adelines will present a benefit concert for Hope House at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the City Auditorium.

Tickets are available from club members, the Sweet Adelines, the Chamber of Commerce, and Murray's Drug Store.

Guests attending the dinner were Emery Ricketts, president of the Stalwarts Club: John Carter, president, and Hilliard Miller, treasurer, of the Center, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Cowen Jr.

Other guests included representatives of the business firms and other organizations that helped with the sale.

Ritz acknowledged the help of the Air Force Academy, Ent Air Force Base and Ft. Carson commissaries, Ajax Furniture, Clark's Standard Service, Cowen Transfer and Storage, Digman Construction Co., Empire Super Markets, the Gazette Telegraph, The Free Press, Golf Acres Liquor Store, K-Mart, Loetscher Super Market, Mitchell Drugs, Miller's Super Markets, Pitcock Drugs, Simm's Super, Safeway Stores, St. Francis Hospital, the Telephone Pioneers, Towner's Navajo Market, the White Eagle Market, Girl Scout Troop 63, the radio and television stations in the region, and the general public.

Safe Cracked At Electrolux, Police Report

Burglars pried open a safe between 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday, after first dragging it 30 feet down a hallway and into another room, police reported. The safe contained approximately $75, according to the report.

An employe of the Electrolux Corporation, 1011 S. Tejon St., told police the burglars had stolen the safe, but when police arrived at the building they discovered it was just moved from the front office to another room in the building.

Police said the thieves gained entrance by prying open the rear door with two prybars.

Police Nab Man on Roof Top

Police apprehended a man Thursday at approximately 7:54 p.m. on the roof of Miller Automotive, 1027 S. Tejon St. According to the report, the man was attempting to break through the roof of the building by digging at it with a sheath knife and pry bar.

Sgt. Richard Anderson said he and three patrolmen were dispatched to Miller Automotive after it was reported that noises were being heard on the roof. Upon arrival, the area was surrounded by the police, and patrolman Jerome Busemeyer climbed to the roof using apparently the same ladder the burglar used. Patrolman Busemyer said when he got to the roof, he saw a man hiding behind a chimney area in the center of the north side of the building. He said he told the man to come out with his hands up, and when the man started to come towards Busemeyer with a knife in one hand and a tire iron in the other, he was told if he didn't drop the weapons, he would be shot.

He did so and was apprehended and taken to headquarers.

Police are holding Richard D. Cellarius, 29, 1010 S. Sierra Madre St., for investigation of attempted burglary.

Eager Scouts Hunt for 'Lost Boys'

An eager group of boy scouts from Troop 23 swarmed over the mountainous terrain of Camp Alexander near Lake George last weekend hunting for lost or injured "boys."

The "lost boys" were stuffed dummies made by the scouts from old pants and shirts. The dummies were then hidden by troop leaders in the rough country, each dummy having an injury mark or a note pinned to it convening the type of injury incurred.

Patrols were then sent out to look for the "lost boys." When one was found, members of the patrol returned with the dummy on a home - made stretcher of tree limbs and blankets. First aid was administered to the "lost boy" and each patrol was rated according to ability to make a stretcher and treatment of the injured.

The Beaver Patrol, under the leadership of David Ates, came in first. Second place went to the Surfer Patrol, led by Bob Kirby.

Troop 23 plans to make "Operation Lost Boy" an annual affair. Troop leader is Harry Johnson. Leaders for the "Operation Lost Boy" campout were Burton Kirby and Carl Boyd.

Latin American Good Will Cited as Essential to Peace

It is essential to the peace and security of the United States to develop and to hold the good wil of the Latin American nations, Air Force Lt. Col. Leroy R. Waterman said in a National Security Seminar lecture.

"Further," he added, "it is just as important that they hold ours." He was speaking on the topic, "Latin America."

"Without the Latin American countries with us in any world struggle, our position would be most uncomfortable, if not untenable," he declared.

"Cuba is an excelent example of what can happen," he added, "it doesn't take much imagination to visualize what a miserable plight we would be in if the other countries to our south should follow the Cuban pattern."

Latin American countries are passing through a social revolution, moving in a great change from backward societies into new modern nations.

It is important that America understand its neighbors "South of the Border," he stated, and pointed out that all people in Latin America also consider themselves as Americans, just as do the citizens of the United States.

In the past, he pointed out, the United States has been too little concerned with the South American countries, but, "now that the Comunists are spending fortunes in Latin America to win them over, we must pay more attention."

He listed these important facts about South America:

— It is the fourth largest continent on the globe.

— It has the highest mountains in the Western Hemisphere, the Andes Range; has the world's largest river system, the Amazon; has the wettest place on earth in Nicaragua where the total is about 260 inches a year, most of it in six months, and has some of the richest soil in the world in Argentina — where the soil is as black and deep as some of the best in the United States.

— The continent has the world's fastest growing population: (a) in 1962 the population was 220 million, going up at the rate of 2.7 per cent a year, so that it will reach 500 million in the year 2000.

— Economically, the continent has low living standards, with intense nationalism and shortsightedness in economics. It is predominantly an agricultural area.

However, the Latin American countries are working toward their own forms of democracy, although the fact that each nation wants to be an economic entity to itself causes trouble.

South America is rich in minerals, and the United States is dependent on the importation of strategic mateials from the Latin Americans, he said.

The colonel listed these figures of U. S. imports from Latin America for these six materials:

Bauxite 99 per cent; copper 69 per cent; fibers (manila and sisal) 65 per cent; beryllium 44 per cent; manganese 30 per cent, and tungsten 20 per cent.

In the future, the United States is likely to show more dependence on Latin American raw materials, he predicted.

As with all developing countries, the nations of South America are short of transportation facilities. Of the Pan-American highway, which begins at the southern tip of Argentina and continues north ward to the United States, at least 1,000 miles are listed as impassable, he pointed out.

However, new roads are planned, and these should help greatly.

While railroad and roads are limited, the main rivers are navigable for hundreds and more than a thousand miles inland (In the case of the Amazon.)

One of the biggest social problems in South American is runaway inflation, he said, listing these cost of living index based on a figure of 100 for the year 1955:

— Bolivia — 891 in 1961; 945 in 1962, and 938 in 1963.

— Argentina — 575; 736, and 846.

Chile — 415; 473, and 682.

— Brazil — 429; 654, and 1,135.

— Peru — 157; 167, and 176.

— In comparison, here are the figures for the United States — 112; 113, and 114.

The continent badly needs some sort of common market of its own to spur trade, he said.

Such a thing could not happen over night, but a step has been taken in that direction with the LAFTA (Federation of Latin American Free Trade Area).

The importance of single crop trade to the Latin American nations was pointed out by the colonel, who cited these percentage totals of exports (1959 to 1962 average):

— Coffee — Colombia 71 per cent; El Salvador 60 per cent; Guatemala 65 per cent; Haiti 55 per cent, and Brazil 38 per cent.

— Copper — Chile 62 per cent.

— Petroleum — Venezuela 91 per cent.

— Tin — Bolivia 67 per cent.

— Bananas — Honduras 47 per cent.

— Wool — Uruguay 56 per cent.

When the market for these products goes down, it hits hard at the economies of the nations so dependent on them, he said.

"Since we are the largest customer for those products, we get the blame for the trouble caused when the prices go down," he said.

The United States takes 50 per cent of all South American exports, while Latin Americans buy 25 per cent of all U. S. exports, the colonel pointed out.

Although the Latin Americans have troubles, they are much further developed than Africa and parts of Asia, Waterman said.

Industrialization is progressing, he said, pointing out that about 60 per cent of the populace now is engaged in farming, whereas just 18 years ago 80 per cent were farmers.

Inter-American cooperation now is more than 60 years old and making progress, he stated. The colonel cited these steps:

— In 1889-90, the first Conference of American States.

— In 1890, the Pan-American Union.

— In 1933, the Good Neighbor Policy.

— In 1940, the Havana Conference.

— In 1947-48, the Rio Pact.

— In 1954, the Tenth International Conference.

— In 1960, the San Jose Conference.

— In 1960, the Act of Bogota.

— In 1960, the Alliance of Progress.

The Alliance of Progress has not made all the progress that was hoped, however, "miracles cannot be expected, for, afterall, it took the Marshall Plan 10 years to rebuild Europe. And rebuilding is much more difficult than building. We cannot expect to solve the miracles of centuries at once," he said.

The Communist block realizes the importance of South America, Waterman said and cited the fact that it spends $100 million a year in the continent for propaganda and agitation.

"The entire Latin American area, characterized by rising expectations, and an exploding population will not remain behind the scenes as in the past. It is becoming more prominent on the world's stage. It may well be the most critical area in the world today," said Waterman.

He added, "Today we are mending our bridges in Latin America, but repairs are much more difficult and tedius than new construction. It will take a long time, and it will take more than dollars," he declared.

Concert Violinist Also Practices As Psychiatrist

By MARGARET SCHERF

CHICAGO (AP) — There's a vast difference between the drab buildings of a home for delinquent boys and the gilt concert halls of the world.

The life of Dr. Marvin Ziporyn, 41, a practicing psychiatrist and successful concert violinist, encompasses both.

The slender, dark-haired doctor, who began playing the violin at the age of 5, was determined throughout his childhood to have a musical career. As an undergraduate at Northwestern University, he became interested in medicine.

He received his M.D. from Cook County Medical School in 1948, decided to specialize in psychiatry and has a private practice which he handles in the evenings.

Recently, he offered his services as staff consultant at the School for Boys in nearby St. Charles, which has facilities for 800 delinquent youngsters.

"I discovered there was no psychiatric service at the school," he said Wednesday in an intreview. "I felt a personal responsibility to get involved."

He also is staff psychiatrist for the Cook County Mental Health Center. As such, he acts as adviser to the Circuit Court in diagnosing persons for whom commitment to a mental institution is sought.

As a concert violinist, he is planning a tour of Europe in April, with performances scheduled in Lisbon, Amsterdam, London, Stockholm, Zurich and Vienna.

Ziporyn won a Society of American Musicians' contest in 1939 and 1940 and was named "outstanding violinist of 1959" by the Arts Circle.

He made a concert tour of the Far East in 1961 and 1962 and has made numerous appearances throughout the United States.

Ziporyn says his two interests are separate.

"There really is no tie-in," he said. "As for musical therapy, I don't feel art is at its best when it's made to serve a utilitarian purpose."

Ziporyn was emphatic about which of his interests he favors.

"The violin is most satisfying," he said. "It's more personal, more challenging. It's much easier to be a first-rate psychiatrist than even a tenth-rate violinist."

"Anyone with intelligence and ambition can absorb the necessary knowledge to be a psychiatrist, but how do you teach someone to play like Heifetz?" he asked.

When does he practice the violin? "There's always weekends and early morning."

Ziporyn feels he has the best of both worlds.

"My psychiatrist friends think I'm a great violinist and my musician friends think I'm a great psychiatrist," he said.

TV Good Place To Visit Only, Randall Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
APTV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Randall thinks that televisionland is a nice place to visit, but he doesn't want to live there.

Randall was a happy inhabitant of the television community from 1952 to 1955 when he played Harvey Weskit, Wally Cox's know it all chum, in the beloved "Mr Peepers" series.

"That part has meant everything to me as an actor," Randall admitted gratefully. "Before that I'd been doing all right in New York, with some pretty good radio work and a few parts in Broadway shows. But after 'Mr. Peepers,' leads on Broadway opened up and so did good parts in films."

Randall occasionally returns to the scene of his first real success for a guest shot in one or another series but insists that he is not interested in tackling another series.

"I don't want to make all the money in the world," he said, "and I like to work in a more leisurely way. When we were making the moving picture, 'The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao,' we took several weeks developing the right kind of makeup and wigs, and then revised them several times to get the precise effects we wanted.

"There isn't time for that sort of attention in television. On the other hand, fast shooting isn't always bad: 'The Informer' was made in two weeks and Ingemar Bergman never takes more than three weeks to shoot and he never allows more than four takes of a scene."

Randall believes that if "Mr. Peepers" had been one of this season's new shows, it would have been a loser.

"I got hold of an old kinescope of one of our shows the other day and showed it during a lecture on cinematography at New York University," he said. "I sat there, dying with laughter — but those kids didn't crack a smile.

"Oh, well, times change and we change. Popular entertainment is always topical. We went out for some sort of truth about teachers, showing them as underpaid, sloppily dressed in $45 suits. Wally and I each wore the same suit for three years and in all that time they were never pressed, never cleaned."

Perhaps "The Man from U.N.C.L.E" is not doing quite as well in the Nielsen ratings as NBC would like, but there is evidence that the James Bondish adventure series is quietly building a devoted cult among old and — particularly — young viewers.

One development is a new switch on the old children's game of cops and robbers. Kids are now playing "U.N.C.L.E. and Thrush," with some of the players taking the part of the good agents and others the bad agents.

Beauty Advice

" . : . I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy youthful look . . ." FCC Delays Probe in TV Programming

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission says it is delaying only briefly the planned hearings on a controversial proposal to trim the influence of the three television networks in programming.

The commission was to have met today to consider the proposed rule and possibly vote on it.

But a spokesman said Thursday the FCC is trying to form a policy on government control of the booming community antenna business.

The three big networks — NBC, CBS and ABC — want the commission to hold off any rule proposal pending an informal conference between the agency and the networks.

The brunt of the rule proposal would reduce to 50 per cent the amount of prime evening time programs controlled by the networks. The other 50 per cent of programming would go to sponsors working through independent producers.

Backers of the plan contend it will improve the level of programs by stimulating competition among producers. Opponents argue that the commission will be getting into an area of program control beyond its jurisdiction, with no assurance the independent producers will bring forth better programs.

Another facet of the rule would prevent the networks from syndicating their old programs for re-use by single stations.

SAFE FOR TOTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Safety pants are the newest "seatbelt" for children. They are attached to the car seat and a child placed in them can stand or sit.

They were invented by a Netherlands safety expert. A report in "Medical World News" noted that the pants appear more efficient than a seatbelt. They are constructed in a way to distribute the force of a collision over the length of the vertebral column.

Let the small fry do their coloring with paper and crayons on the floor. They will probably end up there anyway. But spread papers to protect the floor.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Carl Henthorn is an ethical lawyer who realizes that psychology is potent in determining court decisions. So scrapbook this case and agitate for the long overdue corrections of the present injustices in court trails. Juries need not "see" the proceedings but are entitled to "hear" them!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. C.

CASE V-428: Carl Henthorn is a brilliant Hoosier attorney who invited me to address his district legal convention.

For law is not merely a matter of mathematics applied to the pro and con arguments.

Psychology is now becoming almost as important in regard to the verdicts rendered, as the codified statutes.

And I am not exaggerating! Former Illinois Governor Dwight Green, a successful prosecuting attorney in Chicago, stated:

"It is no longer a matter of evidence that determines the verdicts in Illinois courts, but the 'connections' your attorney has!"

When the Omaha World Herald invited me to speak, the newspaper executive who chaperoned me during the day and presented m to the various audiences, told me of his own recent legal problem.

"I'LL SUE!"
V-428

A little girl had wandered across lots to his backyard that summer afternoon.

She turned the knob on the garage door and entered.

Then she saw an old-fashioned reel type of lawn mower propped against the wall.

So she started playing with it and cut her finger to the bone on the sharp blade.

Two days later, this young newspaperman was sued for $10,000 by her father, charged with operating an "attractive nuisance" and thus enticing children to their own harm!

Fortunately, he was covered by liability insurance, so he told the company to fight the case.

He was "burned up" by this obvious mercenary attempt to coerce him under the ruse of an "attractive nuisance."

But the insurance company urged him to compromise, saying it could settle the matter out of court for $1,000.

But he was adamant in his refusal, telling its officials they should fight this type of obvious racketeering within the law.

Again they begged him to let them settle for $1,000, although they admitted they felt justice was on his side.

"But if may cost us the $10,000, plus costs and travel expense for witnesses, etc., if we fight it and lose."

To which the indignant newspaperman argues:

"Why should you lose?"

And please notice their reply, after contacts with thousands of American courts.

"It is no longer a matter of justice," they said, "for you can never tell how a jury will react. Emotionalism by a sob-sister attorney can sway juries against obvious evidence!"

So.— let's reduce such psychological influences that distort justice by promoting further racketeering in our courts. How?

(1) By letting juries "hear" the case but not "see" it!

This would reduce the skirt-above-the-knee appeals and other obvious attempts to employ sex and sentiment instead of logic to decide issues.

(2) Make the plaintiff pay the full defense costs in every case where the defendant is acquitted!

This will stop nuisance suits that lead to a pay - off via "compromise," and will also make the plaintiff think twice before even starting a suit at all!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: King of ♣ Winning 10 tricks would have been a relatively simple chore for South, the declarer at four hearts, had he but taken the pains to count his winners.

Although North has 15 high card points, his hand—containing even distribution—falls within the limits of a two no trump response. If he had one less diamond, then a more aggressive course would be indicated, for his holding in support of hearts would be worth 16 points.

West opened the king of clubs against four hearts and declarer played the ace from dummy. The closed hand was entered with the jack of hearts and a small spade was led to North's queen. East put up the ace and exited with a trump.

Declarer cashed the king of diamonds, came back to the ace and led a third round. West's jack of diamonds would have held the trick; however, East was careful to ruff with the eight of hearts and then return the ten in order to remove North's last trump. South still had to lose a diamond and a spade and the outcome was a one trick defeat.

Barring some extremely adverse distribution, declarer can win 10 tricks routinely by merely singling in his small trumps. At trick two a club is ruffed with the five of hearts. A spade may now be led to drive out the ace. If East returns a trump, declarer plays the jack, cashes the ace, king of diamonds, and the king of spades and then ruffs another club with the six of hearts. A third round of diamonds is played and, when South regains the lead, he ruffs his fourth diamond with the king of hearts. He loses in all two spades and one diamond.

An alternative line of play is to trump a fourth round of clubs with a high heart. By scoring three ruffs in his hand, South can arrange to take six heart tricks which together with his four side winners brings the total to the required 10.

Queen of Sweden Is Reported Better

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Queen Louise of Sweden spent a quiet night, a communique said today.

The 75-year-old queen was stricken early Thursday with a blood clot caused by a change in her main body artery, the aorta. She was rushed to a hospital and underwent a six-hour operation.

The communique said "her heart function is satisfactory and circulation in the affected leg appears improved. After the very large operation, the queen is obviously very tired and in need of complete rest. The king plans to visit her for only a short time during the day."

Three Contend For Top Honors In Academy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With "The Sound of Music," 20th Century-Fox has a musical hit to match the three contenders for top honors in this year's Academy race — "Mary Poppins," "My Fair Lady" and "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

It's a wonder Hollywood doesn't make more musicals — as of this week, not one of the 37 films in production is a tunefilm. The argument has been that musicals don't sell in foreign markets; but "West Side Story" disproved that.

With successes like the Oscar trio, a musical can justify its investment in this country alone. Further, the movie musical (as well as the Western) is something the American industry can make so superlatively that film makers of other countries don't even try to compete.

"The Sound of Music" is a perfect example. Although the story is located in Austria and the stars are English and Canadian, the film is essentially American in concept and execution. It was created by the same team, headed by producer-director Robert Wise, that made "West Side Story."

The last of the Rodgers-Hammerstein collaborations, "The Sound of Music" is the best screen version of their works. Although commercially successful, the others were marred by miscastings and overproduction. Wise carefully avoided those two pitfalls. His film is impeccably cast.

The story, which Lindsay and Crouse wrote for the stage and Ernest Lehmann adapted for the screen, concerns the Trapp family of singers. It divides neatly into two sections: The efforts of a wealthy naval hero to find a governess — and mother — for his seven children; the family's flight from Austria after the Nazi takeover.

The first part offers enough sentiment to warm everyone except haters of Christmas and children. Indeed, the film could have been a marshmallow mass except for Wise's firm hand and the sharp instincts of the players.

What more can be said of Julie Andrews? It is her radiant presence that brightens and sustains the entire film. Her gingery manner, her crystalline soprano, her graceful figure, all make the character of Maria alive and enchanting.

Christopher Plummer is just right for the captain, stern but charming. As the other woman, Eleanor Parker is rewarded by a touching final scene. Richard Haydn provides some astringent comedy with his usual expertness. The seven children are marvels; they are bright, attractive, never cloying.

The test of a musical is whether the songs integrate smoothly into the action. "The Sound of Music" passes admirably on nearly all numbers, a notable exception being the marriage scene. As Julie walks down the cathedral aisle in a wedding that seems the size of that of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip, an offscreen chorus of nuns sings "What to Do About Maria?"

Over 700,000 students are now attending U.S. junior colleges, as compared with less than 300,000 in 1954.

Curtis Reports $14 Million Loss in Year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Curtis Publishing Co., has reported its second largest deficit in 70 years and announced two major personnel changes.

The company, publisher of five magazines including the Saturday Evening Post, announced Thursday it had a $14-million loss last year.

In red ink since 1961, Curtis' largest deficit prior to last year's was $18 million in 1962.

The personnel changes involve Matthew J. Culligan, 47, who announced he had quit as chairman of the board, effective immediately; and William A. Emerson Jr., 42, appointed editor of the Saturday Evening Post.

Emerson had been managing editor of the Post the past year. He joined Curtis in 1962 after having served with Newsweek magazine and the now defunct Colliers magazine.

Culligan, under fire recently for alleged mismanagement, will retain a contract that pays him $110,000 a year through July 1967, and $24,000 a year in deferred compensation for 10 years thereafter.

In a joint statement, Culligan and the firm said that he "will continue to perform certain services for the company on special projects.

Curtis sources were quoted as saying no one will be named board chairman to replace Culligan.

Curtis said that more than half its 1964 loss came in the fourth quarter when the company was hit by internal strife in the management ranks.

Culligan, 47, was elected president and board chairman in July, 1962. He was accused of mismanagement last fall in a revolt led by Clay Blair Jr., former editor in chief for Curtis magazines and editor of the Saturday Evening Post, and Marvin D. Kantor, chairman of the magazine division.

The board of directors fired both Blair and Kantor last Oct. 30. The controversy led to the resignation of Culligan as president last November. He was replaced by John McLean Clifford as the chief executive officer.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — International oils led the stock market into deepening decline early this afternoon.

Trading was active but not as heavy as Thursday, when volume topped 7 million shares.

Jersey Standard fell more than 3 points and Texaco and Royal Dutch dropped a point.

Steels, rubbers, farm implements, chemicals, rails and airlines also declined.

Electronics posted fractional gains.

Curtis Publishing declined about half a point after reporting a 1964 loss of nearly $14 million.

General Dynamics was unchanged and Curtis Wright was down about half a point on reports they were negotiating a merger.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand was steady and fairly active or some grain futures contracts today and the market was steady to strong most of the time on the Board of Trade.

Best support was for nearby contracts of wheat, corn and soybeans and included a good deal of speculative short covering which dealers said appeared to have been related to improved commercial buying.

Carlot receipts were estimated: wheat 1 car, corn 188, oats 2, rye none, barley 2, soybeans 16.

Heavy Snow Holds Down Car Production

Heavy snow in scattered areas of the nation held U. S. motor vehicle production last week to 191,142, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today.

But despite the storms, the February total vehicle figure of 903,976 was the higesth in history for the month, the AMA said. The previous high was 675,581 last year.

Te production pace for 1965 also maintained its edge over last year as the number of total vehicles produced rose to 1,877,277 compared to 1,693,629 at the same time in 1964.

The year's output so far includes 1,598,789 passenger cars and 278,488 trucks and buses. In the same period last year, 1,421,416 cars had been produced, along with 272,213 commercial vehicles.

The storms curtailed production on the last three days of last week and held production to 161,491 passenger cars and 29,651 trucks and buses, the AMA said. During the previous week 202,014 cars and 32,867 commercial vehicles rolled off the assembly lines.

Juvenile Cases Show Decrease In Springs

The Juvenile Bureau of the Colorado Springs police department handled 58 juveniles last month, which was six less than for the same month in 1964.

Forty-four of the juveniles were boys ranging in age from 7 through 17 while 14 were girls, mainly in their early teens.

Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said 26 were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, five were referred to the state juvenile parole officer, 26 were released to their parents and one held for another agency.

Some of the offenses cleared by arrest included assault, burglary, grand larceny, indecent exposure, larceny from a motor vehicle and petit larceny.

Fire Damages Garage, Workshop

A garage and workshop belonging to the El Rancho Trailer Sales, 5800 E. Highway 24, was damaged by fire Thursday afternoon. The loss was limited largely to contents, but some roof timbers of the building were burned.

The fire was fought by El Paso County sheriff's office firemen, assisted by the Knob Hill Fire Department and the Peterson Field firemen. The Colorado Springs Fire Department received an alarm at 2:08 p.m. and Company 7 responded, but the fire was outside of the city limits and the city firemen took no part in the firefighting.

The sheriff's office today is making an investigation to determine if possible the cause of the fire.

Moral Rearmament Leaders to Meet

LAVENHAM, England (AP) — A meeting of international leaders of Moral Re-Armament is expected shortly to work out selection of a successor to the late MRA chief Peter Howard.

Howard, who died last week during an evangelical tour of South America, was buried Thursday in an Anglican churc Thursday in an Angilcan churchyard here.

Use papier mache (soaked-up newspapers) as a base for driftwood arrangements. The papier mache may be made tougher by adding a little flour to it.

HINTS FROM

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Concerning the removal of deodorant stains, I received the following information from the Technical Service Section, Laboratory Service of one of the big companies that manufacture synthetic fabrics:

"Antiperspirant and deodorant stains are normally removed with chlorine or sodium perborate bleaches. If instructions on the garment in question state that bleach of any type should not be used, an alternate method is suggested that has been found to be effective.

"The stained section of the garment is soaked in isopropyl alcohol or rubbing alcohol by wrapping a rubber band around a gathered section so that only the strained area is immersed. Soak at room temperature for 30 to 45 minutes followed by a normal hand or machine wash." —Rosina M. Grisso

Dear Heloise:

When your pecan or cheese pie top is done to perfection, but the pie still needs more baking, just invert another pie tin to fit over the "top" of the pie crust and continue baking for the prescribed length of time or until it suits you in doneness.

This results in perfect baking every time. —Mrs. R.M.

True! I just made an apple pie and the top crust got brown too fast. I laid a piece of foil over it.

It was perfect. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I sharpen my wall can opener by grinding a small piece of steel wool through it. I then wash it well in hot soapsuds, rinse and dry thoroughly.

Oil the can opener with a few drops of salad oil occasionally. —Evelyn Ethington

Dear Heloise:

For a timesaver as well as a gravy catcher . . . try placing an aluminum pie pan (left over from frozen pies) "between" the roasting pan and rack!

Drippings from the roast fall neatly into the pie pan.

If the meat needs basting, drippings are easily reached. The pie pan may be removed so that gravy can be made from the juice or . . . the drippings and the pie tin may be thrown away after the fat hardens.

This saves lots of time and eliminates greasy mess and clean ups. —Reader

Oh . . . You are so right! Why hasn't anyone ever thought of this before?

You are a precious reader. — Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Has anyone ever tried rubbing vaseline on their hands before rinsing out a dyed article?

I just tried it and didn't get a bit of dye on my hands . . . be sure to get the vaseline under the fingernails, too. —Mrs. D. Thompson

Dear Heloise:

I let the children cut out pictures from magazines (or draw their own pictures) of the different duties I want them to do; then I tack the pictures on our bulletin board. The children tack up their own names beside the picture they like and that chore is theirs for the week.

Even the little ones can easily understand these chore lists! — Jo Greenwell

Standard Saving Plan Helps 29,400 Employes

Savings plans sponsored by Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and subsidiaries have helped 29,400 employes add more than 3,723,000 shares of Indiana Standard stock to their holdings since 1955. The stock represents about 5 per cent of the company's outstanding shares and has a current market value of about $156 million.

Under the plan, an employee can have up to 6 per cent of his annual earnings earmarked for savings, and for each $2 an employee saves the company contributes one dollar's worth of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stock.

Only males are permitted to vote in Switzerland. A referendum on woman suffrage was defeated in 1959.

WEMA Board Approves Colorado Council

The board of directors of The Western Electronic Manufacturers Association (WEMA) has approved formation of a Colorado Council, it was announced this week.

C. S. Selby, general manager of the Hewlett - Packard Co., Loveland Division, told a group of electronics company executives meeting at Writer's Manor in Denver that the WEMA board's action "is formal recognition of the growth of the electronics industry in Colorado and of the interest of companies here in beginning a local program under WEMA auspices."

Selby was elected chairman of the new group, and Dr. Kenneth W. Erickson, general manager of Kaman Nuclear Division, Kaman Aircraft Corp., Colorado Springs, was elected vice chairman. Both will serve on the association's board of directors.

Dr. R. C. Webb, president of Colorado Instrument, Broomfield, was named secretary treasurer of the new council.

WEMA, a trade association composed of some 340 electronics companies throughout the 13 western states, represents more than 85 per cent of the sales volume and employment in electronics in the West.

Colorado becomes the sixth council, or chapter, of the association. Others are organized in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Arizona, and the Pacific Northwest.

The Chicago public-school system is preparing to use a computer to keep tabs on its 550,000 pupils. The system goes into full use in September, 1965.

National Tea Reports Growth, Progress in '64

In the annual report of National Tea Co. to its shareholders, President Norman A. Stepelton reported that 1964 was a year of exceptional growth and progress. A new sales record of $1,122,515,896 — a 6.2 per cent increase over 1963 — was achieved.

While 1964 was a 53-week year, the sales increase amounted to 4.3 per cent even without the additional week, a notable improvement considering there were no acquisitions during the year and the number of stores in operation actually declined slightly.

Average sales per store in 1964 were $1,153,664, also a new high. On a weekly average basis, which eliminates the effect of the extra week in 1964, the increase in average sales per supermarket was 5.6 per cent.

Earnings after taxes exceeded $10 million for the first time in the history of the company.

On a per share basis, earnings for 1964 were $1.25, based on the average of 8,504,000 shares outstanding. In 1963, the per share earnings of $1.17 included a non-recurring special credit of $840,710 and were based upon an average of only 7,844,000 shares outstanding.

Texas Oil and Gas Announces Sales Contract

Louis A. Beecherl, Jr., president of Texas Oil & Gas Corp., has announced that a new 20-year intrastate gas sales contract has been entered into between Delhi Gas Pipeline Corp., owned by Texas Oil & Gas, and LoVaca Gathering Company, a subsidiary of Coastal States Gas Producing Company calling for initial deliveries of 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily commencing Nov. 1, 1967 and increasing to 40,000 cubic feet daily after Jan. 1, 1971.

Delhi Gas Pipeline is dedicating to the contract all gas in excess of existing contractual obligations of the Company's Blessing-Victoria Gas Gathering System. In addition, the Company is in the process of constructing a 25-mile extension line to gather gas from the Company's Goliad County, Texas properties. This gas will also be dedicated to the new contract. Until the contract goes into effect in 1967, the gas will be marketed under present contracts.

As a result of the new contract, virtually all of Texas Oil & Gas Corp.'s gas reserves in South Texas are now dedicated under long-term sales contracts.

In his announcement, Mr. Beecherl stated "The new gas sale assures the continuation of the Blessing-Victoria System's current earnings well into the future. A substantial increase in net income will take place starting in November 1967, when the new contract goes into effect. During the 2-year span of the contract, its contribution to net income could average as much as $350,000 annually. The contract is a major advance for the Company, one which is expected to have an important effect on the future growth of Texas Oil & Gas."

Hewlett-Packard Buys F & M Corp. In Stock Swap

Hewlett-Packard Company today announced it has negotiated an agreement with F & M Scientific Corporation whereby F & M will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hewlett-Packard through an exchange of stock.

The effective date of the proposed combination is June 30, 1965, according to David Packard, Hewlett - Packard board chairman.

F & M, located in Avondale Pa., is a leading manufacturer of gas chromatographs, precision instruments used throughout the chemical and related industries for the scientific analysis of various compounds.

Founded in 1957, F & M now has 400 employees and in 1964 had sales of approximately $7 million. In addition to its headquarters plant in Avondale, the company has a manufacturing facility in Amsterdam, Holland, and distributes its products throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.

Hewlett - Packard, founded in 1939 and headquartered in Palo Alto, Calif., is a major manufacturer of electronic test and measuring equipment.

Packard disclosed that Hewlett - Packard has been discussing a proposed combination with F & M since early December, and said he was "delighted that we will be associated with such a successful company."

"Since its founding eight years ago," Packard said, "F & M has grown steadily and is now a leader in its industry. This leadership has come primarily from the important contributions F & M people have made to the advancement of gas chromatography. Although chromatography is a relatively new technique or materials analysis, its application has expanded rapidly, particularly in the field of analytical chemistry.

"Our association with F & M will open up an entirely new and growing market for Hewlett - Packard."

Frank W. Martinez, Jr., president of F & M, said his company was "most enthusiastic over the proposed affiliation with Hewlett-Packard."

"HP enjoys an enviable reputation in the field of scientific instrumentation, and its technical capabilities and resources will be tremendously helpful to us as we continue to expand our operations and our markets.

"We are especially impressed with the excellence of HP's management and the fact that it has one of the finest employee relations programs in the country. We look upon our association with HP as a wonderful opportunity, not only for F & M as a company, but for every one of our employees, as well."

Valspar Projects Gain In Earnings for 1965

"Earnings for 1965 are anticipated to be consideraby better than 1964," R. J. Baudhuin, Board chairman and chief executive Officer, The Valspar Corporation, told shareholders today at the company's annual meeting.

"1965 will reflect the first full year's sales and earnings of all our newly acquired subsidiaries. Combined sales of the company are expected to top $26 million for the year compared with $21.9 million in '64. This would represent an increase of almost 20 per cent," he explained.

"Preliminary figures for the first quarter of this fiscal year, 1964 first quarter . . . a loss of two cents per share. However, this actually represents a substantial improvement since we've already succeeded in establishing an earnings turnaround with two of the four companies acquired last year. Added to this the fact that the first quarter in every year is traditionally the pain intudstry's lowest sales and earnings period, we are optimistic about the future," he said.

During 1964, Valspar acquired Keystone Paint and Varnish Corporation (Brooklyn, N.Y.), Paint Co., (Omaha, Neb.), and Norco Plastic Company (Milwaukee, Wis.). All four companies are expected to generate earnings in 1965, according to Baudhuin.

"We have amost completed consolidation of these four companies," he explained. "This means reduced operating costs, supply, all of which make earnings contributions," he stated.

The stockholders re-elected the entire Board of Directors to hold office until the corporation's next annual meeting. Members of the Valspar Board are: Ralph J. Baudhuin, Chairman; Francis J. Baudhuin, John R. Baudhuin, W.W. Hirsh, J.J. Carney, Norman D. Cota, Jr., G. J. Baudhuin, and D. L. Clinton.

Springs Dealer Attends Mary Carter Confab

Richard L. Lockwood, Mary Carter paint dealer whose store is located at 2205 North Weber, attended a Mary Carter One-Day Dealer oCnvention in Dallas, Texas.

During the confab, the company's 1965 advertising and merchandising program was presented and new products in the Mary Carter line of interior and exterior paints and enamels were introduced.

The day-long session was one of several conducted in centrally located cities from coast to coast, to accommodate 1,000 franchised Mary Carter retail dealers now located in 43 states. I. G. Davis, Jr., Mary Carter president, and other top officials from the firm's Tampa, Fla., headquarters, conducted various phases of the meeting.

'Not a Quiver' In Atomic Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Tall buildings didn't shake as expected — not even a quiver — during the latest underground nuclear explosion at the Nevada test site.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast touched off Wednesday had an energy yield possibly as high as 200,000 tons of TNT

The AEC had indicated earlier that the explosion at the Nevada test site 456 miles to the north would be more potent, possibly the largest ever detonated underground in this country.

Las Vegas residents were told that it might be felt in tall buildings by workers on the upper floors. But this wasn't the case.

A spokesman said later that the advance prediction was only an estimate. He said it wasn't possible to forecast the exact yield of any nuclear device.

Teenagers Find Tijuana Trip Not So Easy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "TJ," as the teen-agers call it, lies just beyond the double row of guard stations at the Mexican border: Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico .

Church youth groups sometimes take outings there, buying curios in the central market place, eating in the good but inexpensive restaurants, trying to sample the tourist flavor of a foreign land.

But for other teen-agers the lure is different: goof balls, narcotics, cheap liquor, the wide-open nightclub and red-light districts. San Diego police and Border Patrolmen match wits with this second group — trying to turn back the youngsters who aren't old enough to cross the border, or who haven't a good reason for wanting to cross. The second guard post is run by Mexican immigration officials.

The city of San Diego, whose boundary extends to the border, decided seven years ago to bar juveniles under 18 from entering Mexico without a parent's consent or an adult companion.

Tijuana has a reputation for sin and crime almost as old as the border itself, and youngsters egging one another on to bolder and bolder adventures can easily meet disaster there. The problem: How can border guards spot the ones headed for trouble?

A hidden microphone helps.

Officers send teen-agers to a spot to wait for questioning before they cross the border — and then listen in as they rehearse the stories they are going to tell the authorities.

"We can sit inside and listen to the youngsters out there making up their stories," San Diego Patrolmam M. R. Christian said.

If the youngsters try to offer a forged parental consent or a fake identity card, officers can sometimes surprise them by spotting the card at once — from having eavesdropped on their conversations.

Then what happens?

Juveniles are forced to fill out cards giving their true names and parents' names and addresses. Letters are then mailed to the parents, informing them of their children's attempts to cross the border.

"Last year," said Christian, "we got 2,200 thank you letters from parents."

He said 11,373 teen-agers were interviewed at the border check station last year. Only 4,000 got through, he said.

Over 250,000 people in 130 countries bought an Opel Kadett last year.

Do they know something you don't?

Did you know the Kadett is made in Germany by General Motors?

Did you know it has bucket seats and a 4 speed floor shift and enough other standard equipment to make a lot of other cars look positively stripped down?

Did you know the sedan and sports coupe have trunks the size of real, honest-to-goodness trunks? And that the wagon has 50 cubic feet of cargo space?

Did you know there are Buick/Opel dealers all across the country that you can count on for parts and service?

Did you know you can buy a brand-new Kadett for the price of a good used car?

Well, now you know.

Those 250,000 people. They're still one up on you, though. They've actually driven a Kadett.

Are you going to let them get away with that?

Semi-Finals Tonight

Leadville, Huskies Win In Pikes Peak Tourney

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's been an easy glide for the favorites thus far in the Pikes Peak League District Tournament but the road starts to get rocky tonight as the four survivors meet in the semi-finals at the City Auditorium.

This evening's schedule calls for league champion and tournament favorite, Salida, to battle Crowley County in the 7 p.m. opener. Leadville and Florence then tangle at 8:30 in what could be the best match of the tourney to date.

Thursday night, Leadville and Florence joined the Wednesday victors in the semi-finals and neither club was called on to extend itself. The Panthers had leads of as much as 40 points en route to crushing Manitou Springs, 78-43, in the first contest. Florence then pounded punchless Fowler, 62-30, in the windup attraction.

A pair of all-league players contributed the primary damage in Thursday's routs. Jack Hosley, an easy-moving 6-4 forward, rammed through 28 points in Leadville's triumph for the top individual performance of the tournament thus far. Florence's Dave Zamarripa, the PPL's leading scorer during regular season play, dumped 22 as the Huskies breezed past Fowler.

Neither of the winners was in any danger from the opening tip of their respective contests. Leadville, with Hosley warming quickly, raced to a 6-0 lead before Manitou could cash a shot and the Panthers then romped to a 26-8 advantage at the end of the first period.

From that point it was simply a matter of "how much" as Leadville rolled through the porous Mustang defense at will. The Panthers had extended their lead to 31-8 before Manitou finally came up with another goal with 5:55 to go in the half. Over the last four minutes of the stanza, the Mustangs outscored the Leadville quintet 8-4, however, and closed the gap to 41-22 at halftime.

Hosley, who had 17 points in the first two periods, cooled some following intermission but it failed to stem the Leadville tide. By the end of the third quarter the Panthers had moved their lead past 30 points at 61-28 and with 6:05 left in the game it had zoomed to 70-30. Coach Glenn Theulen, who already had several reserves on the floor, cleared the remainder of his bunch at that point and Manitou trimmed away some of the lead in the final minutes.

Manitou coach Allan Porter platooned throughout most of the battle, but even this strategy failed to stir up much punch in the Mustang offense. Bucky Ravenstein, a 5-8 senior, was the only member of the losers in double figures, and he just made it with 10 points.

It took Florence a bit longer to shake Fowler but there was never much doubt but what the Husgies had things well in hand. They broke to a 7-2 lead in the first two minutes as Ray Moore dipped a pair of long jumpers and had upped the margin to seven points at 12-5 with three minutes left in the period. Fowler, led by muscular Bill Vansickle, surged in the remaining moments, running off six straight points to narrow the gap to 12-11 before Moore again hit to provide the Huskies with a 14-11 lead at the period.

Zamaripa who had warmed slowly in the first quarter, began to open up in the second stanza — and so did the margin. The Huskies had bounced it to 14 points at 28-14 with 1:30 to go in the half and it was 30-19 at halftime. Zamarripa then hit six points in the first two minutes of the third quarter and Florence began steadily pulling away as Fowler suffered through a four-point period. It was 48-23 heading into the final stanza and it was never to get any closer.

'Has-Beens' Clash In Intra-City Fight

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Palmer and Wasson are two of the "has-beens" in this year's South Central League race, but that fact won't be noticeable tonight when the local clubs climax their seasons in a renewal of their intra-city rivalry before what should be another capacity crowd at the Palmer Gymnasium..

Tipoff time for the 12th in this series of local classics is 8 p.m.. But a preliminary contest between the "B" teams of the schools is scheduled for 6:15 and those desiring seating had best figure on watching part of that one too.

While the two Springs' clubs are laboring through their latest athletic argument, Pueblo will be the scene of a hectic windup to the SCL race. Centennial (10-1) nurses a slim half-game lead over Pueblo Central (9-1) going into the final two days of regular-season battling and the Bulldogs will attempt to annex at least a share of the crown tonight when they wind up their campaign against tough Pueblo East.

Central does double duty over the weekend, but the Wildcats' tasks appear to be less demanding, at least on the surface. They open tonight's twin bill at the District 60 Gymnasium against last place Trinidad and then conclude Saturday against South's Colts, who are only a notch above the Miners in the standings.

A slip by either Centennial or Central will open the door for the other to move on to a clear-cut title. If both come through victorious in their work this week, the crown will be shared and the two will be forced into a playoff game to decide the league's representative to the state AAA Tournament. If that extra contest becomes necessary, it will likely be scheduled for the District 60 Gym Monday night.

While all this haggling goes on 40 miles to the south, Palmer and Wasson can devote their attention toward winning this latest edition of the city series for no reasn other than the pure satisfaction it brings. A victory by the Thunderbirds will not affect the standings one bit, although it will even Wasson's league record at 6-6 and make the Birds' final overall mark more respectable at 8-10.

Palmer, by winning, can move into a fourth place tie with the T-Birds in the final standings but the Terrors can hope for no better than a 5-7 record in league play and an overall performance of 8-10. What the Tribe is more inteersted in is whittling a notch off the margin that Wasson has constructed in this series. The Thunderbirds, with their 53-44 victory in the first of 1965's two battles, raised their lead to 7-4 over the six years since the schools began their hardwood warfare.

What interests local fandom even more is the fact that tonight's wrapup to the season should offer something of a preview of the future. Both local clubs reorganized as the season went along, trading seniors for younger players and both have seen the strategy begin to pay dividends.

The latest housecleaning job was at Wasson where Coach Dick Westbay trimmed six members from the squad and hustled up a handful of juniors from the Jayvees to replace them. The result was a pair of victories over second division clubs and a near upset of Pueblo Central on the Steel City floor last Saturday.

Heroes in the reorganization have been several, including such names as Budgie Hamilton, Rich Wadlow, Larry Taylor, and Joe Shipp. Juniors Rick Pettigrew and Randy Stanley who have been starters throughout the winter have fit in with the new group nicely, as have holdover seniors Mike Martin, Charlie Steel, and Rod Wells.

Westbay indicated late this week that his probable starters would be Steel, Stanley, Pettigrew, Hamilton, and Taylor.

At Palmer Roger O'Neill has had his present squad intact since midseason, but three starters, including the team's two leading scorers, had departed prior to that time. Included on roster for tonight's concluding tilt are a number of sophomores and as many as three of them frequently start. Ed Fitzgerald, one of the league's finest first-year men at 6-5, is one soph who is assured of a first unit role. His mates usually include 5-8 Tom Espinoza, the only senior, sophomore Charles McKenzie, and juniors John Knudsen and Robert Weatherwax.

The Terrors prefer the slow-down type game, emphasizing ball control and frequently, just an outright stall. Wasson has been more liberal in its tactics, frequently pressing and using the fast break as a primary weapon. When two such diverse systems meet, something usually has to give.

It will, tonight at the Palmer Gym!

Retired Japanese Pitcher Dies at 57

TOKYO (AP) — Tadashi (Bozo) Wakabayashi, a retired Hawaiian-born professional baseball pitcher died today of a stomach ucler. He was 57.

Wakabayashi, voted into Japan's Baseball Hall of Fame last December, was recovering from an operation for intestinal ucler. However, his condition deteriorared early this year and he was admitted to a hospital in February.

He was known as one of Japan's greatest pitchers. In his 16-year professional baseball career, Wakabayashi won 200 games and lost 141 for 1.90 earned run average.

He is survived by his widow, two sons and three daughters.

MEN's LEADER—Alain Calmat of France, pre-meet favorite to capture the Men's singles division of the World Figure Skating Championships, goes over one of his compulsory figures in Thursday's session. The veteran Frenchman took the lead at the half-way point of the compulsory program, which was to wind up today. The Men's free skating will wind up the five-day meet this Saturday night at the Broadmoor World Arena. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Kansas Makes Last Bid For Big Eight Title Tie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas Jayhawks and tall Walt Wesley make their final bid for a share of the Big Eight basketball championship with Oklahoma State Saturday afternoon at Lawrence. Even if they beat OSU, the Jayhawks will need help from last-place Oklahoma to get a piece of the crown.

Oklahoma State, 10 - 2, has clinched a share of Hank Iba's first Big Eight title, the prize the veteran coach wanted most. He already owns an Olympic title and two NCAA crowns.

Kansas, 9-4, closes the season with this game, last one in the weekly television series. If OSU wins, the race will be over. If Kansas wins, OSU still could clinch an undisputed crown by defeating Oklahoma at Norman Monday.

In the unlikely, but possible, event the race ends in a tie, a playoff for the NCAA berth will be held Wednesday at K - State on the same court where the NCAA midwest regional starts two nights later.

The KU-OSU series is one of the most colorful in the nation. The 60-year-old Iba won the most recent, 68-64 at Stillwater, the first four-overtime game of his long career.

Wesley, 6-11 Kansas pivot, scored 30 points in that one, 23 in regulation time. His current average is 26.5. He needs five more field goals and 19 points to establish Big Eight season records for total field goals and total points. Clyde Lovellette of KU set the field goal mark of 139 in 1952 in a 12-game schedule. K - State's Bob Boozer scored 363 in 1959, starting the 14-game era.

Third - place Missouri, 7-5, plays at K-State, 4-8, and fourth-place Colorado, 7-6, closes with Iowa State, 5-7, at Boulder in other games.

Missouri is already one of the league's shortest teams. K - State Coach Tex Winter has used 6-10 Roy Smith and four little men the past two games. Colorado must win to keep alive its third-place hopes.

Of lesser importance at Lawrence are the league statistical crowns. OSU leads the league in field accuracy by a scant margin over KU, .4297 to .4296, and is tops in rebounding .517 to .515 over KU. King leads the league in field shooting at .529, with Wesley next at .525.

Ned Monsees and George Flamank, both of Missouri, are battling for the rebound crown. They are now tied at 11.3 per game.

Oklahoma ripped Loyola of New Orleans 94-80 behind Jim Gatewood's 27 points in a non-conference game Thursday night.

DETROIT (UPI) — Terry Barr, flanker on the Detroit Lions, established an east-west Shrine football game record in 1957 when he caught nine passes.

Finals in Ice Dancing Set Tonight in World Skating

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Canada's queen of the silver blade, Petra Burka, has blazed her way to an expected title in the Ladies single for the second crown to be placed on the heads of skaters entered in the 1965 World Figure Skating Championships here at the Broadmoor World Arena, and tonight another winner will be named as the Ice Dancing competition comes to a close.

The Dutch-born Miss Burka, easily the most outstanding free skater among the world's amateur women, needed a near perfect performance Thursday night to sew up the championship and she came through with just that. All that kept her from drawing votes of perfection was a hard fall near the end o fthe final routine of the evening, but still she clearly outpaced the field of 18.

Miss Burka was the favorite since early in the competition this week, taking the lead in the compulsory figures which count 60 per cent of the total score. And the 18-year-old Toronto lass finished up with firsts from all nine judges with a sparkling 9.0 ordinals which represents blue ribbons across the board.

Coming up into second place was Austria's Regine Heitzer, one of the pre-meet picks and current European titlist, with U. S. National champion Peggy Fleming of Pasadena, Calif., pushing herself into the coveted top trio with a crowd-pleasing performance in the free skating finals of Thursday evening.

Disappointing in her final trip around the ice, Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, the only local competitor in the World Championships at the Broadmoor, fell from second to fourth place. Miss Haigler has been bothered by a back injury for the past few weeks and this undoubtedly cut into her chances to stay among the top three, although she has never been known as a strong free skater.

Miss Burka was the second champion to be named during the five-day tournament, with the only other so far being Russia's Ljudmila Belousova and Oleg Protopopov in the Pairs division, who won Wednesday night. Miss Fleming, a slender and graceful newcomer to inational ranks, was the second United States' entry to place in the best three — following Vivian and Ron Joseph's second place finish in the Pairs class.

The perky Petra, North American champion of the Ladies singles, had skated such a diifficult program with pro-like precision with thrilling leaps and spins that the fall near the end did little to mar her showing. Miss Burka was born in Amsterdam but has lived in Toronto since she was four. As World champion, she succeeds another Hollander, Sjoukje Dijkstra, who joined a professional ice show after winning three consecutive years.

American skaters trailed badly into this morning's second part of the compulsory figures in the Men's division, which will wind up the meet on Saturday night with free skating. Alain Calmat of France, a 24-year-old veteran of 10 previous World championships and the pre-meet pick, skated off to a 3.2-point lead in the first three of six compulsory figures on points to 488.2 for runnerup Emmerich Danzer of Austria, who recently upset Calmat in the European championships.

Danzer, 20, and 17-year-old Donald Knight of Canada were virtually tied for second place with the same number of points, while Japan's lone entry Nobuo Sato was fourth with 474.0 points.

U. S. and North American champ Gary Visconti of Detroit paced the Yank team members, but still could place no better than seventh. Scott Allen was ninth and Tim Wood was a distant 16th.

Tonight's feature at the World Arena will see Eva and Paul Roman of Czechoslovakia attempt to gain a record-equalling fourth straight title in the Ice Dancing competition. They are the easy favorites, especially since compiling a goodly lead in the compulsory program earlier in the week.

The smooth skating Czech couple are considerably ahead going into this evening's finals, but there could be quite a race for the runnerup spot between Great Britain's top twosome of Janet Sawbridge and David Hickinbottom, and Lorna Dyer and John Carrell of the United States. Also still in the running for one of the top three finishes are Kristin Fortune and Dennis Sveum of the U. S. squad.

Tonight's free skating in the Dancing division will wind up the competition until Saturday evening and the Men's finals. Both the evening performances for the last two days start at 8 p.m. and capacity crowds of 4,300 are expected to jam the World Arena.

It was a near full house which saw the gals cut their capers in free skating on Thursday night, and few went away disappointed.

Miss Burka was tremendous with her exciting show of strenghth, daring and grace. Although she is reputed to be the finest free skater in history, the Canadian champion did not give her full repertoire of difficult jumps because of the lead she had piled up in the earlier competition. She just didn't need to take chances.

On the other hand, Miss Fleming, 16-year-old new National titlist, drew the standing ovation for her brilliant bid to pull up in the standings. Her floating style and fine interpretation of music won second place voting from the judges for the free skating alone. It was a deserving ballot.

Third in the free skating, but taking second because of her lead in the compulsory figures, Miss Heitzer was also in great style. All the Austrian skaters have been wearing black arm bands in mourning for the recent death of their country's president.

Another high in the rankings for free skating was East Germany's Gabriele Seyfert, who placed fifth in the overall grading. And Japan's Miwa Fukuhara gave her nation sixth place with a graceful performance.

One of the gals was forced to withdraw from the competition because of illness. That was Great Britain's Sally-Anne Stapleford, who was ordered out of the compulsory figures because of a high temperature and rash on her face. It was feared she may have had the measles, but it turned out to be acute indigestion instead.

La Junta's Uncanny Shooting Tigers Bump Harrison From State Tourney

By CHARLIE DREUX

La Junta's uncanny field goal shooting left a wake of Harrison basketball supporters talking to themselves some 30 minutes after Thursday night's State Playoff Game at the Palmer Gymnasium.

It didn't require a computer to resolve whether or not La Junta's reputation of completing more than 50 per cent of its field goal attempts was true — especially when Terry Steenburgen burned the nets for 23 points, hitting 11 of 14 field goal attempts and the La Junta backcourtsman only missed one shot in the second half.

La Junta's Tigers only required 59 field goal tries to sink 29 two-pointers as the Southern League kingpins knocked off the undefeated Will Rogers League champions from Harrison, 72-59, and in doing so the Tigers qualified for the eighth berth in next week's State AAA Tournament in Denver.

Coach Sam Landrum, who led La Junta to the State Double-A championship two years ago when the Tigers dumped Salida in the finals, has fielded another cage edition with the potential to snatch state honors. Providing the southern cagers continue their hot-hand from the field.

Harrison's Panthers had the Tigers on the ropes several times in Thursday night's playoff game before a capacity crowd at Palmer's gym.

But the Tigers rallied in the closing minutes of the third period to pull ahead and even though the Panthers closed the margin to nine points in the final period, La Junta forged ahead in the last three minutes.

In addition to Steenburgen's 23-point performance, the Tigers had three other basketballers scoring in the double figures including the state's top scorer Eddie Martin who tallied 17, followed by Dewey Hardin with 15 and Don Garlington with 11. Ron Bellar scored six points to round out La Junta's scoring.

For the Panthers, 6-4 Mike Obert turned in a brilliant performance as the Harrison senior equalled Steenburgen's output via 23 points and Obert dominated the backboards as he pulled down 16 rebounds to top both teams in that department.

Eddie Hook poured in 18 points while Harold Oldham dumped in 10 points. Harrison's other big frontscourtsman 6-4 John Dalton was stifled to two points and seven rebounds as Dalton was still hampered from a bout with the flu.

Dalton sat out nearly half the game as the big Harrison forward couldn't keep pace with the rapid-moving contest.

It was a remarkable 32-minute exhibition of basketball for both teams but Steenburgen's amazing feats of putting the ball through the hoop and Obert's all-around performance that sole the show.

Even though the Panthers managed to stay guled to Martin, who came into Thursday' outing with a 24.4 points per game average in 20 games this season, the 6-3 forward-guard connected with a 14-foot jumper at the start of the second period to end a scoreless first period.

Martin hit seven additional two-pointers as he and Steenburgen sparked La Junta's 22-point third period scoring barrage.

Harrison jumped to a 16-13 first period lead but the Tigers forged ahead in the next eight minutes of play to take a 32-27 margin at intermission.

Then the Tigers broke loose in the third period to outscore Harrison by seven points as La Junta poured in 22 points while the Panthers found themselves in a one-shot only situation. Harrison lost control of the backboards in that period and until then, the Panthers were dominating the offensive rebounding.

But with Obert having four personal fouls and Dalton viewing the action from the bench, the Panthers lost control of the boards and could only tally 15 points in the third period.

Obert, Hook and Gagnon pulled the Panthers within 2 points of the Tigers in the opening minutes of the third period and Obert deadlocked the score, 36-36. But Steenburgen sank three straight field goals to pull La Junta ahead.

At the start of the fourt period La Junta enjoyed a 54-42 lead and despite the fact that Hook connected on three two-point plays, the Panthers couldn't come closer than nine points of the Tigers, 60-51, with less than five minutes left in the game.

Thursday's victory gave La Junta a 20-1 won-loss record while Harrison concluded its 1964-65 campaign with a 14-3 record.

Canada Seeks World Ice Hockey Title Minus Star

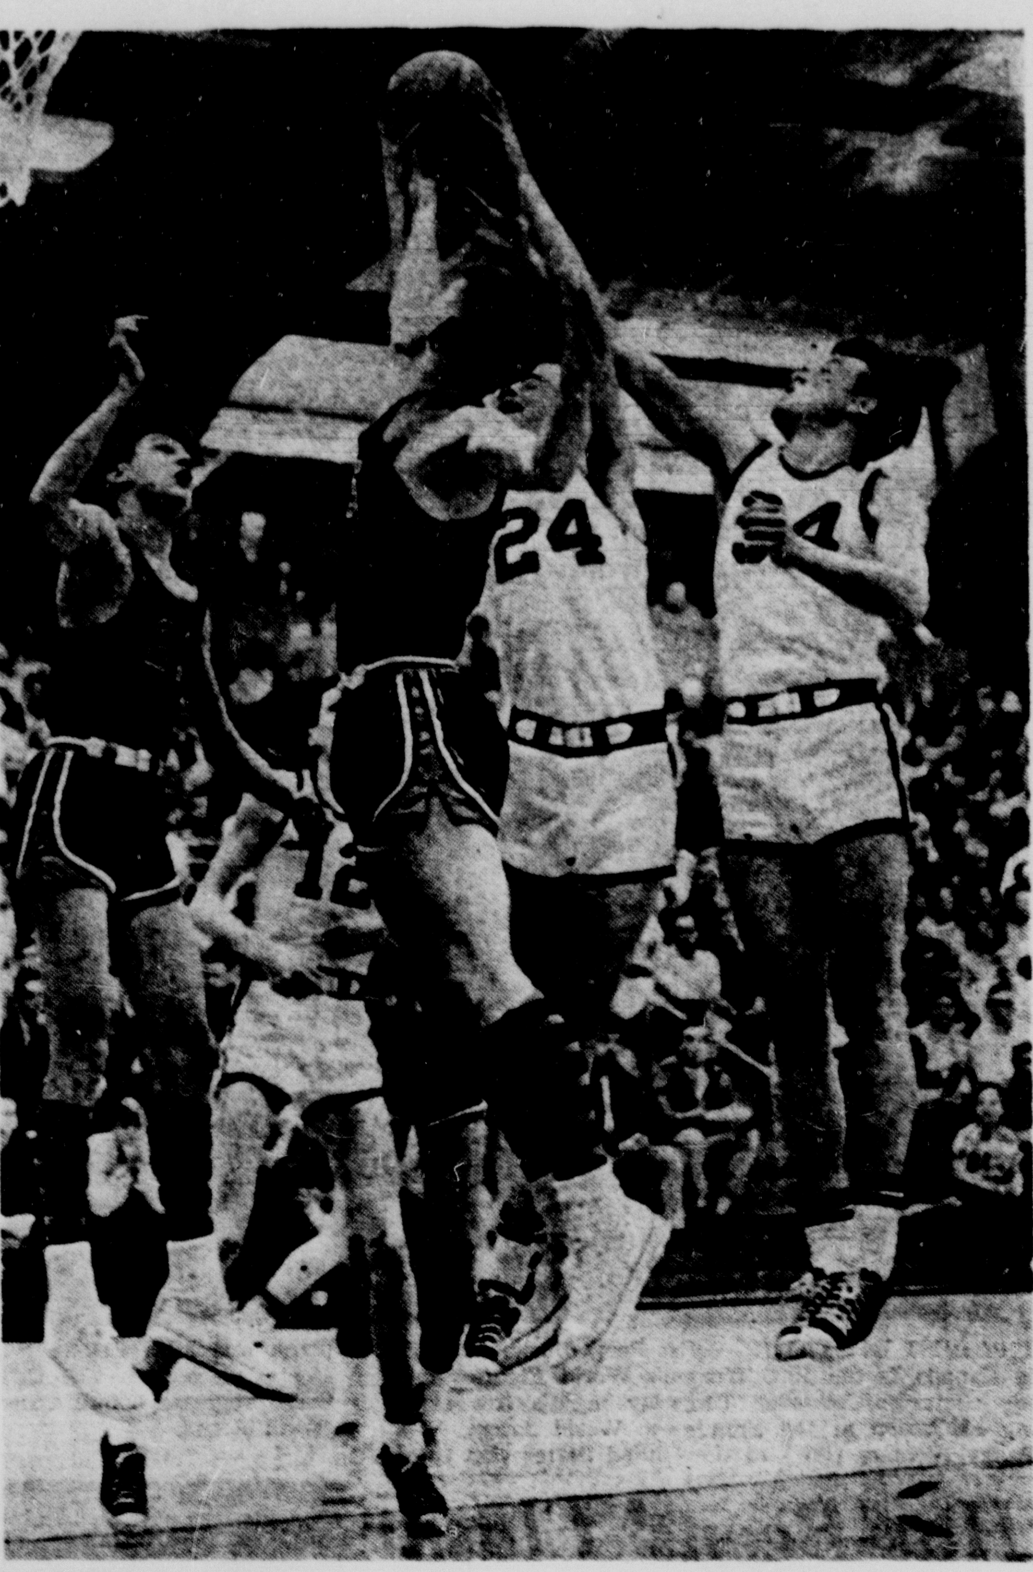
By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPERE, Finland (AP) — Canada began its quest for the 1965 world ice hockey title today without Marshall Johnston, one of its top stars.

Johnson was injured in a rerent exhibition game in Canada and coach Gord Simpson decided not to take the risk of nominating him among his 17 players for the World Championships here.

Canada was scheduled to play Finland.

The first day's play Thursday strengthened the predictions that four teams will dominate the tournament again. Sweden defeated the United States 5-2, Czechoslovakia whipped East Germany 5-1 and Russia, defending champion, crushed Finland 8-4.



BATTLE FOR REBOUND—La Junta's Don Garlington battles two Harrison players for a rebound during Thursday night's State Playoff game at Palmer's Gym, including Mike Obert (24) and Eddie Hook (34). Obert snatched the ball from Garlington as the 6-4 Harrison center turned in a brilliant performance on the backboards and led the Panthers in scoring with 23 points and 16 rebounds in a losing cause as La Junta knocked off the Will Rogers League undefeated champions, 72-59, to earn a berth in the State AA Tournament next week. Others in the picture are La Junta's Richard Flinn (21) and Harrison's John Dalton (12).

Bucs Take on Abbey In State First Round

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Faced with the formidable task of meeting the Denver Parochial League kingpins from Mullen in the state semi-finals, St. Mary's Pirates cannot afford to overlook tonight's opponents from Canon City Abbey.

The Pirates tangle with Canon City Abbey tonight in the State Parochial Tournament quarter-finals at the Cheyenne Mountain High School Gymnasium. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. tonight and according to St. Mary's Athletic Director Father Leo Kennedy all tickets will sell for $1 apiece.

The winner of tonight's contest advances into the championship bracket while the loser is eliminated from the State Paroke tourney title contention and goes into the consolation bracket. The winner of the St. Mary's-Canon City Abbey game will take on Mullen in Saturday's championship semi-finals at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday's action moves into the Denver Auditorium Arena as well as the finals in both the championship and consolation divisions. Sunday's chamionship finals is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Auditorium Arena.

In other State Paroke tourney opening games tonight, which is scheduled for four neutral sites in Denver and Colorado Springs, Mullen takes on Sterling St. Anthony's; Regis battles vastly improved St. Francis; Pueblo Catholic locks horns with Annunciation; and St. Mary's meets Canon City Abbey to round out tonight's agenda.

The winners of the St. Mary's-Canon City Abbey and Mullen Sterling St. Anthony's games will clash in the 7:30 p.m. semi-finals game Saturday while the victors of the Regis-St. Francis and Pueblo Catholic-Annunciation games will meet in the 6 p.m. semi-finals game on Saturday.

Sunday's championship finals will pair the winners of the semi-finals game at 7:30 p.m. following the championship third place game between the losers of Saturday's semi-finals.

Dan Wright's Buccaneers finished in third place in the final DPL standings with a 12-6 won-loss record, finishing behind the loop champion from Mullen (16-2) and Regis (15-3). In overall competition, the Pirates compiled a 18-7 record.

Under the direction of first-year coach Earl Everett, Canon City Abbey's Bears concluded their regulation slate by stopping Trinidad Catholic last week by a decisive margin of 74-43. They finished second to Pueblo Catholic via a 3-3 won-loss record and wrote a 7-12 overall record.

Canon City Abbey won its last State Parochial Basketball Tourney championship in 1952.

Wright indicated that he would start his regulars for tonight's game against Canon City Abbey with the exception of forward John Van Horn, who re-injured his knee last Friday. Van Horn missed the DPL finale against St. Francis as the Pirates went under to the Warriors in double-overtime, 66-64.

Van Horn was hospitalized last Sunday and Wright related that the 6-0 senior would probably undergo surgery. However, Van Horn was released from the hospital and was attending school this week. Wright said Thursday that he didn't know if Van Horn would be able to play in the tourney.

Wright did say that Van Horn would be out for tonight's game but he could be ready for Saturday's encounter.

The probable starting lineup for St. Mary's would include Tom McCarthy and Jerry Knauf at guards, Larry Walters and Sam Zavatti at forwards and Tom Socha at center. Joe Jezek and Mike Mudd were earmarked to see considerable action tonight.

Davis Cup Playoffs Moved Up One Week

TOKYO (AP) — The Japan Lawn Tennis Association announced today the date for the first round Eastern Zone Davis Cup play between Japan and the Philippines was rescheduled to April 23-25.

The association said the series, originally set for April 16-18 in Tokyo, was extended one week at the request of the Philippines. The Philippines asked Japan for the extension because the original dates fell on Easter week which is observed by Filipino Catholics.

The winner of the Japan-Philippine match will meet South Korea in the semifinal round at Seoul.

Wesley Unanimous Pick For All-Big Eight Team

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Talented Walt Wesley, the 6-foot-11 Kansas pivot who wears Wilt Chamberlain's old KU No. 13, was the only unanimous choice and Oklahoma State's Jim King was just four votes from unanimous on The Associated Press 1965 All - Big Eight basketball team announced today.

Hank Iba, 60-year-old Oklahoma State coach who reached a long-cherished goal, his first Big Eight championship, was named Big Eight coach of the year. He was a 2-to-1 choice over Iowa State's Glen Anderson.

Behind Wesley and the 6-foot-6 King, competition was close. Hard-driving 6-foot-3 Al Koch of Iowa State and 6-7 Chuck Gardner of Colorado were next in the voting. Oklahoma's 6 - 5 Jim Gatewood won the last spot on the first team by a scant four votes over Pat Frink of Colorado.

King and Gatewood are the only seniors on the first team, which is averaging 8 points, 44 rebounds, shooting .483 from the field and .708 from the foul line in league games.

Wesley made a run at Chamberlain's league scoring record of 28.3 set in 1958. His average shot up to 2.1 before the last two games. His current mark of 26.5 is third in league history behind Chamberlain and 28.0 by Clyde Lovellette. Both were All-America choices at Kansas.

King and Wesley rank 1-2 in field accuracy, King and Koch 1-2 in free throw accuracy and all but Koch rank in the first seven reboundtrs. Koch has a 17.3 scoring mark, Gardner 18.5, Gatewood 14.7 and King 13.6.

King is one of the best defensive big men in the nation. Wesley's shot-blocking, defense and rebounding all improved the last half of the season. Gardner, an A-minus student who came to Colorado on an academic scholarship, suddenly blossomed at the outset of the conference schedule.

Gatewood is the first Oklahoma player to make the All-Big Eight team in several years. He's an all-around standout.

Duke Meets Deacons In ACC Semifinals

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A week ago West Virginia scored the college basketball upset of the season by defeating sixth-ranked Davidson in the semifinals of the Southern Conference championship tournament.

Will a similar fate overtake the eighth-ranked Duke Blue Devils tonight when they face Wake Forest in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney at Raleigh?

Going into the ACC tournament with a dismal 11-14 record, the same as West Virginia, Wake Forest upset North Carolina 92-76 in the first round Thursday night after Duke barely escaped disaster against South Carolina.

Duke, thrice victor over Wake Forest already this season, beat the Gamecocks 62-60 on Jack Marin's basket in the last 41 seconds. The Deacons, led by Bob Leonard's 25 points, wiped out a 43-38 North Carolina halftime lead with a 14-point burst early in the second half to down the Tar Heels.

Maryland beat Clemson 61-50 and N.C. State overwhelmed Virginia 106-69 in the other first round ACC games. The Terps and the Wolfpack meet in the other semifinal tonight.

The St. Louis Billikens celebrated acceptance of a bid to play in the National Invitation post-season tourney by drubbing North Texas 90-73 at St. Louis. The Billikens and Bradley were named to the NIT Thursday, completing the 14-team field.

A crowd of 18,178, the largest to see a regular-season doubleheader in 15 years, turned out at New York's Madison Square Garden to watch four NIT teams play. Fordham edged Manhattan 67-65 on Len Zandy's three-point play in the last 17 seconds and St. John's downed NYU 70-66 on Ken McIntyre's six points in the last 65 seconds.

Boston College, which plays St. John's in the NIT first round next Thursday, won its 13th straight with a home court romp over Holy Cross 111-89. It actually was the 14th straight for the Eagles, but their victory over the Phillips Oilers is considered an exhibition.

Southern Methodist and Texas finished tied at 10-4 in the race to determine the Southwest Conference representative in the NCAA championship tourney and will meet in a playoff at Waco on Monday. SMU beat Arkansas 88-75 and Texas edged Baylor 79-75.

Art Wall Leads Maracaibo Golf Tourney

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — Former Masters champion Art Wall had a new course record but the slimmest of possible leads today going into the second round of the Maracaibo Open Golf Tournament.

Wall, the Pocono Manor, Pa., pro who won the over-all title on the Caribbean circuit last year, toured the Maracaibo Country Club course in a record seven-under par 65 in the first round Thursday, but still had nine others within shooting distance.

Young Jay Dolan was just one stroke back, three others were locked at 67 and five others had 68s, as 33 of the international field broke par 72.

Al Besselink, winner of last week's Caracas Open, Bob Ross and Archie Dadian all had 67s, while Wes Ellis, John Barnum, Larry Zeigler, Jim McCoy and Ken Jacobs had 68s.

Wall had seven birdies and 11 pars in his round, hitting all but one green in regulation figures. Dolan stayed just behind with superb putting, stroking birdies on five straight holes starting with the fifth.

Villanova Favored in NIT Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Retiring Joe Lapchick doesn't think his St. John's basketball team has a very good chance of winning a record fourth National Invitation Tournament championship.

Instead, it is the consensus of Lapchick and three other New York City coaches whose teams are in the NIT that Villanova could win its first tournament title.

The coaches talked about the March 11-20 tourney following a doubleheader that filled Madison Square Garden Thursday night with 18,178 persons, the largest crowd to see a regularly scheduled doubleheader there since Dec. 23, 1950.

Forham edged Manhattan 67-65 wile St. Johhn's eased past New York U. 70-66.

Villanova, which has a 20-4 record, is top-seeded in the NIT and receives a bye into the quarter-finals. The Wildcats, lone conqueror of Providence, is ranked ninth nationally.

"Villanova's going to be a tough team," Lapchick said. Our chances aren't too good. All of the teams are relatively good. New Mexico generally has a very good team. We're playing Boston College, and they're a very, very good team."

John Bach of Fordham said Villanova "obviously is a tough team. They have one of the great defenses in the game."

Lou Rossini of NYU and Ken Norton of Manhattan agreed that Villanova has to be given a good chance of going all the way, but Norton added:

"New Mexico also rates up there, and you can't discount Bradley and St. Louis. In a short tournament, anyone can win. All you need is a hot series

ILO-ILO, ZAMBOANGA, AND CEBU

RECENT AMERICAN ADVERTISING RESEARCH suggests that the perfect combination of words for the ideal headline—eye catching-wise—is not, as was thought, "Amazing New Free Offer!", but the names of three Philippine ports: "Ilo-ilo, Zamboanga, and Cebu."

Apparently it has only one drawback: it is a very hard headline to work into ads for such staples as aspirin, Telly dinners, or Europe. Fortunately we are able to use it, since we have Rover dealers in all three of the cities.

So if you are going to the Philippines, or to any one of 160-odd other countries, you can order a Rover or Land-Rover here and pick it up there, at considerable savings. For details, please write or call

Provost Leading Team To NHL Second Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Claude Provost, Montreal's handy right wing, has personally shouldered the Canadiens into second place in the National Hockey League.

Provost, for years considered one of the league's top defensive forwards, has blossomed into a scorer and his 25th goal of the season Thursday night gave Montreal a 2-2 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs. In the only other game played, New York came from behind and nipped Boston 4-3.

The Canadiens, were trailing 2-1 midway through the third period when Toronto defenseman Kent Douglas drew a penalty. Montreal was trying to set up its power play and Henri Richard dumped the puck behind the Leafs' net.

John Ferguson scooted back of the nets and swiped at the puck, trying to center it. It bounced off Provost's arm near the corner of the cage and spun past Leaf goalie Terry Sawchuk for the tying goal.

Don McKenney, recalled by the Leafs just three days ago, had given Toronto the lead midway through the second period after Toronto's Frank Mahovlich and Montreal's Jean Beliveau had traded earlier goals.

The tie gave the Canadiens second place one point up on idle Detroit and left the Habs just two points back of first place Chicago. Toronto, winless in the last five games, is fourth, five points back of the Red Wings and eight behind the Black Hawks.

New York's Jean Ratelle scored two goals as the Rangers battled from behind and whipped the Bruins.

Four WCHA Teams Set For Playoffs; CC Finis

While the top four clubs in the final standings of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association enter the league playoffs this weekend, tail-ender Colorado College has released its hockey players for study, early baseball practice and any other duties around the local school.

This weekend, tonight and Saturday, the top quartet play a pair of two-game series to determine which teams will represent the WCHA in the national tournament.

League champion North Dakota takes on Michigan State at Grand Forks, N. D., and at Houghton, Mich., the Huskies of Michigan Tech host Minnesota this weekend. Both of these short series will be determined on a total-goals-scored basis, with this week's winners moving on to a final playoff game next week.

If North Dakota wins, as expected, the final playoff game will be in Grand Forks against the winner of the Tech-Minnesota battle, March 8. Basically, the playoffs determine the league title and the two WCHA teams to enter the NCAA championships at Brown University at Providence, R. I., March 18-20.

The NoDaks won the regular season title, with Tech coming in second, Minnesota third and Michigan State fourth. The remainder of the final standings had Michigan University fifth, Denver University sixth and Colorado College last in the seven-team league.

CC finished out its season last weekend by dropping its final two games at Michigan State, giving the Spartans the opportunity to slip into the fourth spot playoff berth. State won the first game in a run-away, 8-2, but then in the return match they had to go into sudden death overtime to win 7-6.

That was the third overtime CC has played this season, losing all three.

The Tigers finished the season with an overall 7-19 record and 2-14 in league play. It was a natural disappointment to Coach Bob Johnson's Bengals in not having a better season, record-wise, but in that there are several regulars from this team coming back next winter the outlook for the future is fairly bright.

Two of the graduating seniors, however, are CC's twin leading scorers for the season. Senior wing Bob Magie from Duluth, Minn., and center Warren Fordyce from Dauphine, Manitoba, finished in a deadlock for team scoring honors with 32 points each. Magie had the most goals on the squad, 21, and Fordyce the most assists, 21 also.

Junior winger Glen Blumer will be the top scorer of those returning next season, having finished with 26 points. Two sophomores, Jim Amidon and Bob Lindberg who skated on the same line all year, were also high in the final figures.

Another senior, Bob Otto of Edmonton, Alberta, established a new record for penalties during a season. He ended up with 115minutes on 36 infractions.

Both goalies, Mike Carter of Panoka, Alberta, and Grand Forks' Bill Howard have another year of eligibility and should give the Tigers depth in the nets next year.

Walden Is Top NFL Punter

NEW YORK (AP — Bobby Walden of the Minnesota Vikings should have no kick coming when he learns about the official 1964 National Football League punting statistics released today.

The figures disclosed that Walden edged Yale Lary of the Detroit Lions for the punting title by one-tenth of a yard. Walden averaged 46.4 yards for 72 kicks while Lary's average was 46.3 for 67 efforts. Lary was the 1963 leader with 48.9.

Billy Lothridge of the Dallas Cowboys got off the longest punt, 75 yards on Oct. 11 against the New York Giants. Washington's Pat Richter punted the most times, 91. This was only one short of the league record set by Howard Maley of the Boston Yanks in 1947.

Walden, who did all the Vikings' punting, enabled Minnesota to take the team championship. Detroit was next with a 45.7 yard average. Then came San Francisco 45.6, New York 45.4 and Chicago 44.5.

Cadet Patterson Aiming For National Epee Crown

An Air Force Cadet, who four years ago didn't know an epee from a butter knife, today, has the national epee championship as his goal; from his record this year he is not too far from it.

Cadet Jock Patterson, the Falcon's top epee man, has so far compiled a 29-1 win-loss record for the current season, but must look to the NCAA Championship with one obstacle — Paul Pesthy of Rutgers. Pesthy beat him out of the top spot last year and will probably be harder to beat this season since the Rutgers contender received added experience as a member of the United States Olympic Fencing Team in Tokyo.

The soft spoken Cadet must cross one hurdle before the championship matches in Detroit on March 19-20, the Western Athletic Fencing Conference meet in San Francisco, March 12-13.

The 1961 graduate of Wasson High School, here in Colorado Springs, never touched the epee, foil, or saber before coming to the Academy in 1961. His high school athletic abilities were confined to basketball and track and field.

He has since, under the watchful eyes of Coach Nick Toth jelled into one of the top Cadet fencers, and led the team this year to its fourth undefeated season.

The Falcon fencing team has beat Wisconsin, Detroit, Wayne State University, Ohio State, Oberlin College, Illinois, Notre Dame, Michigan State, Iowa and Kansas in completing a perfect 10-0 record.

The 21-year-old Cadet's success involved many hours of hard work and study. Only through his determination and guidance by Coach Toth has it to become a contender for the national championship.

Toth first saw him working out with the freshman basketball team and noticed he had the makings of a top fencer. When the cut in basketball came, the coach approached Patterson and talked him into joining the fencing squad.

He noticed that his protege, even as a freshman, had the agility, stamina and quick reflex action needed to become a novice. Another asset which attracted the coach was Patterson's 6-foot-4 inch frame. This height gives Patterson the advantage over most opponents.

Patterson worked hard to become a national contender. In his sophomore year when he compiled a 20-4 win-loss record, he worked extra hours on Saturdays, polishing his style, coordination and wit. So far, during his three-year varsity competition, he has an outstanding 72-13 record.

Patterson's love for fencing comes from the fact that it combines both physical prowess as well as a good mind. As he put it, "Fencing is a battle of wits, in which you try to out-guess your opponent and counter before he has a chance to make a move."

He added, "Physical conditioning is a must; it shows up especially during the tournaments." In the Nationals last year, he competed in 35 bouts in just two days. Each bout lasted anywhere from two to four minutes.

Patterson's parents, Col. and Mrs. James T. Patterson, are in Hawaii, but were assigned here during Jock's high school years. Col. Patterson is assigned to Pacific Air Force headquarters at Hickam AFB.

Last Unbeaten Curling Teams Fall in Meet

SEATTLE (AP) — Wisconsin and Illinois, the last unbeaten teams in the U.S. Men's Curling Championships, tasted defeat Thursday.

Wisconsin was staggered 8-4 by highly regarded Minnesota, and then the Badger state champions turned around and handed Illinois its first defeat in the six-day tournament.

That left three teams tied for first with identical 7-1 records: Wisconsin, Illinois and North Dakota.

Ray Somerville, making his third shot at the national title, hit on 80 per cent of his shots for a rare six-point score that turned the tables for Superior, Wis., as it handed the Chicago team its first defeat in the afternoon session, 11-6.

Somerville make a spectacular takeout shot in the sixth end, but it was not quite enough for Wisconsin to overcome a St. Paul, Minn., lead in the day's first round. It tied the score, but a clean takeout gave the Minnesota team a final four points and victory, 8-4.

Skip Dale Dalziel of Grafton, N.D., make 85 per cent of his shots, leading North Dakota to a 6-4 victory over the host Washington team.

Four Share Pensacola Lead With Four Under 68s

By ROBERT SANDLER

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, Doug Sanders, Kel Nagle and Dave Marr have two things in common: they carded four-under-par 68s for first round honors in the $65,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament and they're praying for warm weather.

Winds were icy and gusting during Thursday's morning rounds and the temperature dropped to the 30s.

Nicklaus, shooting for his first victory on the tournament circuit this year, rationalized the wind as "not as bad as we had out West in January. But that cold made it difficult to loosen up because of all the clothing you have to wear."

Despite wind and cold, Nicklaus called it "my most solid round all year. The premium here is on accuracy. Although I'm not completely satisfied with my game, I think I'm on the right track."

Nicklaus had six birdies in his round, but made the turn at par 36 on the 6,142-yard par 72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Sanders said his best shot was his third from the last of the day. With the help of the wind, he came off the 18th tee into a tree area.

Playing a three-iron, he hooked the ball 180 yards onto the green, putting it in 2 for par.

Nagle, with five birdies didn't think his play was very exceptional. "I just putted good," he said, after capping his round with a 30-foot putt on the 18th. "But that weather — it was pretty cold. I'm not used to it."

Marr, with six birdies said, "Those three putts got me going. I forgot about the weather."

The Open lost three players because of injuries — Tommy Bolt, a bad back; John Pott, ear trouble; and Bob Duden, hand injury — and faced the prospect of losing Ken Venturi to the weather.

Venturi, recovering from a recent circulatory ailment, said, "If it gets any colder I doubt very much if I'll play." He said the ailment caused numbness in his hands.

Billy Casper, Chuck Courtney, Don Cherry and Bill Martindale tied for second place with 69s. Eight players carded 70. And defending champion Gary Player was one of many with an opening round 72.

Two Players Finish Nevada Cage Game

WELLS, Nev. (AP) — The Wells-Carlin High School basketball game ended on schedule Thursday night, but there were only two players on the floor.

Carlin had only six men available at the start of the game, and through fouls, was down to one near the end of the game. Wells reduced its staff to one to make things even.

Wells won 89-29 to eliminate Carlin from the Eastern Division Zone Tournament.

Terrell Wide Favorite Over Machen

By MURRAY ROSE

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Terrell and Eddie Machen, a couple of contenders hidden in the shadow of Cassius Clay, clash tonight in a 15-rounder for the World Boxing Association's version of the heavyweight championship.

Terrell, a 6-foot-6, guitar-strumming boxer who has won 12 straight fights, is a 12-5 choice over the 6-foot Californian, who was beaten in his last fight by former champion Floyd Patterson.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald is hoping for a crowd of about 7,000 and a gross gate of $60,000 for the International Amphitheatre.

The arena seats 12,000 and is scaled for $102,000. So far the fight has created world-wide apathy.

The bout will be shown on closed circuit television in several cities. There will be no radio broadcast. Fight time is 10:30 p.m., EST.

This is a title fight of sorts because the WBA stripped Clay of title recognition for signing a return match with Sonny Liston. This violated the WBA's rule against return title bouts without special permission. Liston was dropped out of the rankings after another one of his brushes with the law.

The WBA first named Terrell and Cleveland Williams of Houston to meet for the title. But Williams was shot in a scrape with the police near Houston and was fired out of the contention.

So Machen, who was ranked fifth after losing a 12-rounder to former champion Patterson at Stockholm last July 5 was boosted to No. 4 and into the title fight with Terrell. Now he is ranked No. 3.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

REAL BATTLE TOPS FILM ROES — AND DUKE WINS

HOLLYWOOD — The great common denominator is trouble, touchstone of heart as well as character. And Duke Wayne's trouble, one of the biggest Hollywood news stories in 1964 when it broke at last on New Year's eve, made the world realize two things about the big guy whom they'd come to take for granted. One was how much he has grown in stature over the years. He didn't have to risk his image, in the odious Madison avenue phrase, by telling that his chest surgery had been for incipient cancer of the lung. He'd been discharged as cured. He could have pitched right back into action as he did in the wilds of Mexico for "Sons of Katie Elder" with very few being the wiser, and we who had kept the secret wouldn't have told. "I told," he said, "because I know how much solid hope my recovery could bring to many poor devils in the same fix. And if it encouraged people to get regular checkups, it would save lives. Image!"

John said: "More men ought to listen to their wives when they beg them to get checkups. I usually get one every year but this time I'd gone two years When I had a few weeks off, Pilar kept after me to get it over with. I did. When they found the spot on my lung, I had the job of telling Pilar. You can imagine how tough it was on her, with two little ones. But she was game and never broke down until it was all over. She was my main support and encouragement all the time and we've never been closer than we are today." The volume and character of the response to the announcement is what brought out the second thing we'd scarcely realized — how much the fans love him.

He was surprised and moved: "Why, people have written me from all over the world. Their letters are different — warm, personal, like letters from old friends. Dan Gallery, brother of Tom, the sports promoter, wrote me that his brother-in-law has cancer and asked me to write him. I did. I got a lot of letters like that. I've never felt so close to so many people. The cancer societies want me on their campaigns. They're welcome to use my case but I don't want to make a profession of this. Before I know it I'll be the man who had cancer. Thanks to The Man Upstairs and my doctors I've got my life back and I want to go on living — that's the whole point."

Paramount's New York office telephoned Wayne in Mexico to say one of the networks wanted to do a TV spec, "A Tribute to John Wayne" with his friends and best known associates on the show. "What are they trying to do, bury me?" he said. "Tell them to forget it. I've just got my second wind."

MEXICO CITY — Mexico expects further earthquakes.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence

Reliance on Force

The essential harm of the socialist system is its reliance upon force.

A person who believes in individualism will not employ force to compel others to his point of view. To do so would cause him to betray the central merit of his belief. Thus, the individualist must rely exclusively upon persuasion, argument, demonstration and reason in order to win people to his cause. He runs the risk that his views will not be supported. But he is willing to run the risk since any variation from voluntaryism is at odds with his fundamental belief.

A person who believes in socialism, however, places full reliance on force. And many a socialist doesn't really know that this is what he commands the government to act for him in the obtaining of a uniform result. The socialist can admit of no deviation. The only merit to his entire system of belief lies in its uniformity. Since uniformity is contrary to nature, then the socialist must rely on force and specifically upon the force of government for him to get what he wants.

If we contrast these two systems, we will see what this means.

The individualist will permit the socialist to believe as he likes. He merely asks that the socialist not inflict his views upon those who disagree. But the socialist cannot permit the individualist to have a view. Any view contrary to that of the socialist destroys the entire premise of socialism. Thus, force is the ally of the socialist and the enemy of the individualist.

Unfortunately, the pure position of the individualist has not been permitted full development as yet. For those who are anti-socialists in our time, have tended to employ the same tactics and methods as the socialists, merely applying them in reverse.

Thus, many anti-socialists, out of harmony with socialist objectives and methods, nonetheless will adopt socialist methods in order to "fight" socialism.

This characteristic of the anti-socialist is particularly visible in the field of propaganda. Rightfully, the anti-socialist will object when government takes our money and employs it to spread socialist propaganda. But the method of the anti-socialist, falling short of true individualism, is often to get control of the government so that our money can't be taken and employed to spread anti-socialist propaganda.

In this procedure, the anti-socialist offers no cure at all. He does not sense, any more than the socialist, that the employment of government to spread propaganda is essentially evil. Instead, he assumes that if government can be invoked to spread good (his) ideas, that is justified. Government propaganda is only inexcusable when ideas not good (not his) are promoted.

The individualist position is that force cannot be rightfully employed to spread any kind of propaganda whatever. The individualist would not tax for purposes of spreading ideas, whatever the ideas may be. He would favor free expression of ideas and would assume that each person would assume responsibility for and payment for the spreading of his own ideas.

Thus, the individualist position tends toward consistency. It will not favor force in the attainment of ends deemed desirable.

The position of the anti-socialist is inconsistent and vulnerable. While he professes to individualist ends, he adopts socialist means. He will use any device the socialist will use. He states that his purpose is to "fight fire with fire." He does not seem to recognize the fact that fire is always fire and like any fire will always burn.

Thus, the socialist adopts ends and means which, while both are negative, are consistent. And the individualist adopts ends and means which, while positive, are also consistent.

The anti-socialist is, unfortunately, inconsistent. He adopts positive ends which he seeks to reach by negative means. His is the argument that the end justifies the means.

Feeling that individualism is so worthy, he is willing to adopt collectivist tactics to win it.

'Pockets of Poverty'

Remember how the bleeding hearts in Washington were so concerned about needing the "war on poverty" to help those poor folks in West Virginia?

Well, here is what Rep. Richard H. Poff, a Virginia Republican, has to say about the poverty war and how West Virginians were "helped" by this program to spend federal taxpayers' money:

"While the bill was under debate, proponents most often illustrated and justified the need by pointing to the state of West Virginia as the supreme example of poverty. Even after the bill had become law, President Johnson, campaigning through West Virginia, promised he would "do something" to help relieve poverty in that state. Now, the first allocation of poverty war funds has been made. West Virginia will receive $423,811. This averages about 15 cents per person in West Virginia.

"How does this compare with the states of Texas and Minnesota? Texas, which often boasts of being the wealthiest state in the Union, will get $9,766,483. Texas has five times as many people as West Virginia, but Texas will receive 23 times as much poverty aid as West Virginia. Minnesota, the Vice President's home state, will get $1,499,407 — three times as much as West Virginia.

"It begins to appear that poverty's home is where the administrator's heart is."

Socialism Either Way

Presumably in self defense, the American Medical Association has come out with its own medical plan for the aged, but it, too, embraces socialism.

Now, the way to avoid a greater degree of socialism is not to accept it in a lesser degree, for the simple reason that socialism, once accepted in any degree, allows the socialist schemers the old "foot in the door" stance which can be increased to a larger opening almost at will by just a little more pushing.

"Eldicare" or "Medicare," whichever one of these "care" plans is accepted will eventually wind up as totally socialized medicine for the total population.

The way to fight socialism is totally. It isn't possible to have "a little bit" of socialism and not continue deeper into it. There are far too many people who think "socialism has some good points" and are willing to adopt them. And there are far too many more who do not realize that most of the schemes being cooked up by the politicians, who call themselves anything but socialists, are pure socialism.

We would not today be so deep into socialism as we are if the proponents of the new deal, fair deal, new frontier and now the great society had admitted they were socialists promoting socialistic schemes. Americans have always tended to shy away from anything clearly labeled socialist. But the Fabians among us are slick at changing labels and inventing catchy slogans that fool the masses.

But we had expected something better from the American Medical Association than a milder, watered down socialized plan of their own. As we remarked in the beginning, this is very probably a self-defense move on the part of the medical men. The "Eldicare" plan will allow the doctors, as well as the patients, a little more freedom of action, but for how long?

The Medicare enthusiasts have already boasted that their plan is only the first step toward totally socialized medicine for everyone. The Eldicare plan, if adopted, will give them the same opportunity. All the doctors can hope for out of their plan is some slight postponement of total socialism in the medical field.

We don't whip socialism by accepting it in lesser degrees.

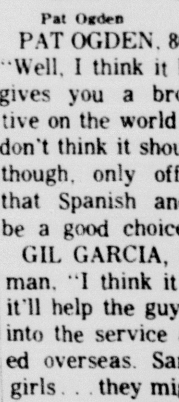
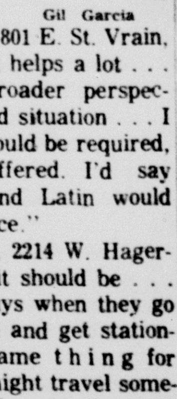
QUESTION: Should high school students be required to take foreign languages?



Pat Ogden



Gil Garcia

PAT OGDEN, 801 E. St. Vrain, "Well, I think it helps a lot . . . gives you a broader perspective on the world situation . . . I don't think it should be required, though, only offered. I'd say that Spanish and Latin would be a good choice."

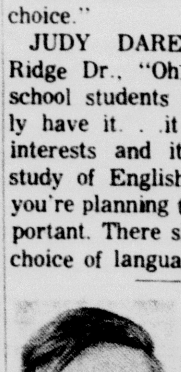
GIL GARCIA, 2214 W. Hagerman, "I think it should be . . . it'll help the guys when they go into the service and get stationed overseas. Same thing for girls . . they might travel someday, or something. Maybe marry a foreigner."

Lyn Wolverton

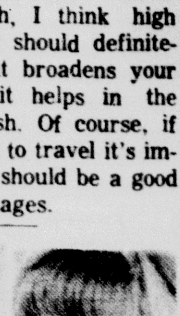
Judy Dare

LYN WOLVERTON, 3616 Red Canon Ave., "Well, with some foreign language study in high school, you stand a better chance of getting into college. Also, if you expect to go on for a graduate degree, two foreign languages are required. There should be a fair range of choice."

JUDY DARE, 627 Crown Ridge Dr., "Oh, I think high school students should definitely have it. . .it broadens your interests and it helps in the study of English. Of course, if you're planning to travel it's important. There should be a good choice of languages.



Karl Nelson



Sandy Bilbrey

KARL NELSON, 1928 N. Corona, "Yeah because it won't hurt ya . . . it'll help in college . . . in fact, it's required for the college preparatory curriculum. Standard modern languages are German, French, and Spanish."

SANDY BILBREY, 1515 W. Boulder, "It should be required . . .you gain a better understanding of your own language . . .a better appreciation of language, and of other peoples and cultures."

The Local Scene

Go Western

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Many times an attractive, small community has lost much of its charm by trying to look as grown up, modern and sophisticated as its larger neighboring towns or cities. This is a mistake. Following this line, all small towns tend to look very much alike. They lost their identity and become just another town.

But, generally speaking, each town starts out with its own distinctive personality, its own styles in architecture, its own quaint atmosphere and its own special appeal to the passerby. And its particular charm is easy to keep as fresh and appealing as ever so long as it doesn't "grow up" too fast.

And all this is truer of western towns than of others. The western town posseses its own peculiar flair, atmosphere, character, personality, or whatever you care to call it. The west was different and it has always been a source of wonder to me that so many western towns have tried to lose their identity with the west, like a cowpoke wearing a derby hat.

That is the reason I salute Woodland Park, a genuine western town of fairly ancient vintage that has decided to keep its western look. Even though many new and extremely modern houses have been built in and around Woodland lately, the main stem looks much as it did way back there in the horse and buggy days. The filling stations are the only really garishly "moderene" looking additions to the scene. The new churches blend themselves very well with the traditional western atmosphere.

The Woodland Park Chamber of Commerce has promoted a drive for the westernizing of all store and other business fronts in the town, and the business men themselves are enthusiastic about it. This change will undoubtedly add glamor to an already glamorous small town and create a better setting for its annual "Ute Pass Stampede," as the rodeo is called.

The estimated cost for changing the building fronts is not high enough to frighten anybody and the change should pay off in various ways; in community pride, for instance, and in added attractiveness and, finally, financially by drawing more visitors and perhaps holding them longer.

Now this is an excellent example of urban renewal the free enterprise way. This is a voluntary cooperation between free men who are bent on improving their city. No doubt Woodland Park could have petitioned the Great White Father (now everybody's Big Brother) in Washington for a million dollars for a bureaucratic planned urban renewal and got it, along with a host of planning locusts to show them how to spend it. Sound far-fetched? It happened to Wink, a smaller town than Woodland Park. But of course, Wink is in Texas. But again, LBJ is going to have to do something to hold Colorado in the Democratic column until after 1968, and Woodland doesn't want his youth camp. And apparently it prefers to do its own urban renewing.

Woodland Park might have lost a little of its western look, but its old western spirit seems to be intact. There is nothing more attractive about any town, small or large, than an independent spirit, a willingness among the citizens to cooperate in civic enterprises and not to try to lay their burdens upon the taxpayers, locally or statewide.

The Woodland Chamber of Commerce deserves a pat on the back for sponsoring the "Western Look" idea, and the business men deserve one for their whole-hearted support, and with no bellyaching about the expense, estimated at $500 to $750 per building. Of course, taking the long view, they probably feel that the expenses will be returned to them several times over in the new business their more attractive main street will draw.

I wish them the best of luck, and I'm certain nearly everybody does.

Nation's Press

Enforcement of An Honor Code

From The Phoenix Gazette

A congressman from the Pacific Northwest has criticized the Air Force Academy's honor code contending it encourages cadets to be informers on one another. He offered to aid cadets who did not themselves cheat on exams but face discharge because they knew of infractions and did not report them.

The honor code is as old as any of our miltary academies. It is fundamentally good and right. We cannot trust the future of our country and the lives of our sons to the leadership of men who are not honest and honorable.

Nevertheless, the issue of informing is an important one.

Is it logical for a cadet to be required to inform on another cadet during his years in the academy, yet to punish him if he does the same thing under conditions of war? We think not. But neither can an effective honor code be supported by nothing more than blind faith in the proposition that every living human being can be trusted to police his own saintliness.

We believe the cause of honor would be well served by emphasizing in the traditions of the service academies an intermediate step in enforcement of the code. This provides that a cadet who knows of an infraction should first go to his fellow cadet who is guilty of the violation, tell him he is aware of it, and suggest that he — the guilty cadet — should report his own act in keeping with the code. If the guilty cadet does not then take appropriate action, there should be no criticism of the other boy for reporting it.

Often this would achieve a two-fold purpose. For one thing it would provide a straightforward, man-to-man confrontation that would erase the stigma of tattling. For another, it would save, for later honorable service, some cadets whod might not otherwise have turned themselves in. The cadet who reports his own misconduct is more apt to incur penalties short of discharge. He is more apt, also, to learn the true meaning of honor in its most rigorous sense from the direct action of a fellow cadet than from a sudden bolt unleashed by his superior officers.

Wit and Whimsy

Wife: "I think it's time we got our daughter married and settled down, Eugene. She will be twenty-eight next week, you know."

Husband: "Oh, don't worry, my dear. Better wait till the right sort of man comes along."

Wife: 'But why wait? I didn't."

The American Way

Musings

By TOM ANDERSON

In England they call it a Socialist-Labor government; in America they call it The Great Society; in the end they call it dictatorship . . .

Is it true that a white man can't vote or own property in Liberia? . . .

Don't pay any attention to those labor-baiters who claim that the international Socialist, Walter Reuther, won the election. He had plenty of help.

At a crowded Kremiln reception, Lady Astor asked Stalin: "When are you going to stop killing people?" (He's quit now). This is the same Lady Astor who once told Winston Churchill: "If I were your wife, I'd put arsenic in your coffee." Churchill replied: "And if I were your husband, I'd drink it."

It is an even money bet, in my opinion, that the next President of the United States will be Hubert Humphrey. Lyndon Johnson is a hard working, hard driving, hard drinking man who has himself said that his heart attack was as near fatal as a non-fatal heart attack can be. . . No one has yet been able to explain to me the difference between Hubert Humphrey and a Socialist. . .The violent campaign of hatred now being waged against conservatives by the anti-hate mongers brings to mind L. H. Robbins' verse:

"How a minority,
Reaching majority,
Seizing authority,
Hates a minority."

VICE VERSA

Deficit spending has become a way of life. Our politicians no longer seriously propose that we do what is necessary to get the government out of the red. The way to get the government out of the red is to get the reds out of government.

If you think you've got troubles: one of the nation's leading conservative publications (endorsed by Barry Goldwater and other great Americans) has had these recent experiences:

1. Been investigated and fined heavily by the post office department for a technical and innocent infringement of postal regulations.
2. Been repeatedly harassed by the F.B.I. for being suspected of printing campaign literature without identifying the printer and the officers and board of directors of the sponsoring organization. (Has anyone seen a campaign piece which did contain this information?)
3. Lost virtually all of the little advertising it had.
4. Had a close friend persecuted by a district attorney for distributing books which "embarrassed" the President. (Several thousand Americans did likewise in the months preceding the election.)
5. Refused the F.B.I.'s request to turn over its mailing list for F.B.I. scrutiny.

Now do you understand why most of the big publications and networks are all the way with Daddy Bird?

"NEWS FLASH"

Just a few days ago Yugoslavia's most important literary magazine stated that the Soviet Union used concentration camps and practiced genocide long before Adolph Hitler did. So what's new? All informed Americans (who don't depend on networks and mass magazines for information) have known that for years. . .Did it ever occur to you why you never see an anti-communist article in "Life," "Post," "Look," "Esquire," "Newsweek"? And why you see continuous attacks on patriotic, religious Americans like Dr. Carl McIntyre, Dr. Billie James Hargis, Dean Manion, Robert Welch, Dan Smoot? During the 1943-49 period alone, the "Saturday Evening Post" published more than 60 articles which promoted the communist line, according to John Flynn in his great book, "While You Slept."

FOR ART LOVERS

To the Editor:

Somebody named "Pete" something seems to have stirred up a real ruckus with a magazine article critical of Colorado Springs.

The poor fellow was probably just homesick, therefore grouchy. Being from New York City, he missed the breath-taking beauty of dirt-encrusted, rat-infested tenements; the narrow, littered streets; the loveliness of sign-bedecked subway trains where men and women may be attacked and knifed day or night; the I don't want to be involved attitude of New Yorkers who can watch a woman being stabbed to death on a street without the heart to even call police.

As for signs, how could our puny efforts compare with the blatant, garish, screaming-for attention, sign-bedecked streets of his home town? The grandeur of our mountains, the vastness of our country, the unaffected naturalness of our people made him feel so little, so insignificant, so unimportant a speck that he just whistled in the dark.

As for signs — who can say where beauty may be found in the eyes of the beholder? Take a look at "Pop" art. Some "art lovers" will pay hundreds of dollars for a picture of a can of soup — copied from a billboard. Hang it in their homes, to boot. Should government at any level take away our freedom to enjoy a fleeting look at art as we speed along our highways?

LAWS

To the Editor:

As stated previously, I feel that your paper was very inconsiderate in giving me so much space in order to express my views about the advisability of the people of Colorado voting for a Sunday Closing Law for the prevention of the sale of non-essential items of merchandise. It is my belief it is time for the store owners to get together and draw up a proposed law for the people to vote on if there are enough of them who want to stay closed on Sundays and want protection from loss of business for doing so. If this step is ever taken, then will be the time for further talk to try to get people to vote either for or against the proposal.

Aside from this particular issue, I would like to defend the existence of good laws against those who advocate that "a good law is no law at all."

I certainly agree that existing laws should periodically be reviewed to see if they fulfill the needs of the times and to see if any unjust laws exist. I, personally, am satisfied that any unjust law that exists in the United States that is of significant importance is soon amended or revoked as quickly as it is discovered that it is not a good law. There are, no doubt, laws in existence today that have little or no application to our present way of life, but if they are doing no harm, that fact probably accounts for the reason that no one has taken the effort to have it removed from the statutes of the City, County, State or Federal Government.

Just as I believe it right and proper to remove existing laws that are unjust or have no application to today's situation, so do I also advocate that if a new law is needed to cope with the problems of today, it should be enacted. The only thing that I feel is an absolute necessity, in order to be fair to everyone involved, is that the proposed law that is drafted for the people to vote on is drafted in such a way that they can vote either for or against it without any reservations. So many times, we find that the governing body who drafts a proposed law for the people to vote on drafts it in such a way, or includes such important distracting clauses, that it is impossible to vote for a law to do the basic thing the people want done without including something they do not want.

Certainly, I will go along with the argument that no one should force his beliefs on another concerning that person's relationship with his God. This is something that God wants everyone to work out for himself. But for the sincere person, that person's only problem is to find the Church Jesus Christ established while He was here on this earth; learn what that Church teaches concerning the things he should or should not do to please God; learn, through prayer and practice, to use the instruments of help His church can give him to feed and strengthen his spiritual life (his soul, which is made to the image and likeness of his God); and most important of all, do the things he knows please his God — not only because He has promised so much for doing so, but also because he loves the God who made him and gave him life. Nobody who truly loves another deliberately does things which he knows offends the person whom he loves.

Because very few Christians will argue the fact that Jesus Christ taught "brotherly love" as being the thing He wants most (aside from each individual's salvation of his own personal soul), a good and just government, such as ours, will expect human laws to help man in this endeavor. Take for example, it is God's law that we must not kill one another except in self-defense and our good governments have laws that exact stiff penalties for those who will not obey this particular law of God. If we take time to consider this, we will find that many of our man-made laws were inspired by God's commandments for helping men to live with one another. We will find, also, that our good government even helps man to find his peace with his God by having laws that assure each individual the right to seek his relationship with his God as he sees fit — and these are good laws which help men to live harmoniously together.

Therefore, it is my reasoning that if a law is needed to fulfill the needs or wants of the majority of the people in a community (particularly, if in cooperation with God's wish), let us not fear to enact it, just so long as it is a fair and equitable law that is needed because the situation that exists will not straighten itself out of its own accord, and there is no doubt that it is the will of the majority of the people.

GEORGE M. ERNST, JR.
827 S. Cascade

Editor's Note: There is nothing "fair and equitable" about 51 per cent or even 90 per cent of the people voting in an election forcing their views concerning Sunday closing of stores upon 100 per cent of the people in a given area. Yet, this is what Mr. Ernst is advocating.

Ownership without control is not ownership at all. Group control of private property is a form of socialism. Businesses which favor group control of private property take precarious steps toward government control over all business decisions.

CIVIC LEADERSHIP

To the Editor:

From the uprisings as heard in some of our southern states, it appears that there are some questions seldom answered. Of course, new reporters may profit from the sensational; so it is not too much to be expected from them to get to the bottom of what is in reality taking place as directed by a self-appointed leadership among a segment of our population. Is this outward appearing docile ready-to-explode leadership as composed of a few white and colored personalities actually interested in the civic welfare of American citizens; or have they been trained to put on an angelic front while promoting just the opposite with behind the scene motives?

The way news is often controlled and slanted to encourage one sided secrecy, most thinking Americans are becoming fed up with professional rabble-rousers who use force and unconstitutional means if possible, under the pretense of being altruistic in helping some non-voters to be able to vote. The way it looks from here, all bonafide citizens of our nation have a civic responsibility to be prepared to cast their ballot but many do not exercise this right; for some are not prepared and others are indifferent. Thus far all law-abiding citizens in our nation have continued to live peacefully together and prosper in tolerance more than in any part of the world. Then why all the dissention and conditions as stirred up by a leadership that is in need to be investigated more than it is to be headlined?

What we need in our nation today is conscientious news reporters who will refrain from reporting any event that encourages criminal and subversive egotism.

The Fruits of "Neutralization"

By RUSSELL KIRK

Nearly everybody in Washington believes that the Johnson Administration means to cash in its chips in Southeast Asia. Although the forces of South Vietnam have been more successful, during the past several weeks, against the Viet Cong guerillas than ever they were before, many people in the American state and defense departments, and some influential senators, think the game no longer worth the candle.

The ravens are gathering — if one may mix metaphors. The latest South Vietnam government detests Ambassador Taylor, suspecting that he and his principals mean to abandon their country through "neutralization," perhaps in agreement with Russia. Cambodia, wanting to be in at the death, openly declares her intention of attacking South Vietnam's frontier, ignoring the United Nations. In Laos, General Phoumi Nosavan's attempt at a military coup probably was a last desperate effort to seize the reins of power and oppose the Pathet Lao Communists before the United States withdraws from Southeast Asia.

If American troops and aid are soon withdrawn from the whole region, doubtless the face-saving device of "neutralization" will be employed. South Vietnam, in effect abandoned to the tender mercies of the Viet Cong and North Vietnam and Red China, will pass into the hands of a "neutral" regime—for a little while. Laos will be wholly overrun by the Communists; Cambodia will fall altogether within the empire of Asiatic Communism; it is doubtful whether Burma can retain even a slight degree of independence, or whether Thailand and Malaysia can hold out long. India will stand in peril.

It should be emphasized now that the fatal American error was made four years ago, when President Kennedy "neutralized" Laos. That folly gave control of more than half of Laos to the Pathet Lao forces fully opening the Ho Chi Minh Trail to unimpeded passages of arms and guerillas into South Vietnam. Thus the South Vietnam government and its American allies had to fight a losing battle, like the French earlier, against guerrillas supplied continually from a privileged sanctuary.

The Communist powers — North Vietnam, China, and Russia — agree to "neutralization" only in mockery. They are justly confident that no "neutral" regime, deprived of American assistance, can find the will or the resources to stand against the "armed doctrine" of Communism. In a matter of months, probably, the Communist conquest of the "neutralized" territories would be complete — to be followed by a massacre, in accustomed Chinese style, of all "reactionary elements," the folk who had trusted in the promises and the might of the United States.

It still may be possible to escape this catastrophe by decisive action. The Ho Chi Minh Trail might still be blocked by a defensive line running from the Thailand border through the narrow middle of Laos to the coast of Vietnam. But it would be necessary to employ, coherently, the armed forces of Thailand a de-neutralized Laos, South Vietnam, perhaps Formosa, and whatever other support might be scraped up. This, Washington fears, might mean "escalation" of the struggle in Southeast Asia; and "escalation" is a word terrifying to the timid.

The alternative is the abandonment of allies and an enormous gain for the Communist powers. But Washington's cocktail parties will continue undisturbed — for a time.

These Days

"Old Myths" One Year Later

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — this is the home town of Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, and, since it is just about as far away geographically from any foreign nation as any spot in America, it could be the key to the senator's somewhat equivocal attitude toward pursuing the Cold War. Certainly it offers a good place to take a one-year-later look at his famous speech of March, 1964 on the "Old myths and the new realities."

It will be recalled that Fulbright, heartened by Krhrushchev's adventures in "goulash diplomacy," thought last March that the Cold War was subsiding, and so he proceeded to "think the unthinkable," advocating a more relaxed attitude toward Communists everywhere. Castro's Cuba could, he thought, be regarded not as an "intolerable" threat to the Monroe Doctrine but simply as a "distasteful nuisance." The possibility of new agreements with the "polycentric" Communist nations of eastern Europe and with the Soviet Union itself could be profitably explored. As for Viet Nam and Red China, Fulbright was more noncommittal. But he said a kind word for the former assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, Roger Hilsman, who had been forced to quit after recommending an "open door" attitude toward the possibility of improving our relations with the bloody Mao Tse-tung.

What seemed really intolerable to Fulbright was the prospect that the Cold War would continue to extract some fifty billion dollars a year from American taxpayers for armaments. And, after spending a couple of days at Bill Fulbright's alma mater, the University of Arkansas, which he once headed as a controversial president, one can see why the head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee resents the current cost of our foreign relations. Arkansas is a poor state, especially in its northwestern Ozark highlands where it tries to get by on the chicken business. The cry of university faculty members is "Thank God for Mississippi" — meaning that the Arkansas state budget for education isn't quite the worst in the United States. The average for public school teachers' salaries in Arkansas is below that of neighboring Oklahoma, where teacher have been threatening to resign en masse if they can't get more money.

So it is easy to see why Bill Fulbright would like to hack some money out of the fifty billion military budget and divert it to such things as aid to education. One can sympathize with his psychological predicament.

But the question, in the light of Viet Nam and the current manifestation of renewed working relations between Moscow and Peking, is whether the "old myths" of Communist instransigence are really myths and whether the "new realities" are any different from what we have been living through ever since Russia cracked or stole the secrets of atomic fission.

Since Bill Fulbright made his famous speech, Khrushchev has disappeared. Well, the senator was ardently hoping, a year ago, that the Central Committee of the U.S.S.R. was "developing under Khrushchev into a kind of rudimentary parliamentary body." Maybe it has been developing in this direction, but it must seem to Fulbright the unkindest cut of all that the "rudimentary parliamentarians" should have seen fit to throw out the symbol of "goulash diplomacy" in favor of Brezhnev and Kosygin, who are now promising ground-to-air missiles to North Viet Nam.

It was Bill Fulbright's "unthinkable thought" a year ago that Castro could be more or less ignored. And maybe Cuba, by itself, poses no insuperable problem for the U.S. But Che Guevara, who is the most effective Communist in Cuba, has been comparing notes on guerilla fighting with the Red Chinese in Peking and making offers to the Africans of good Cuban training in subversive warfare against "neo-colonialism." Guevara seems just as much at home in Peking as he is in Moscow, which would indicate that Russia and the Red Chinese have at least a second-level working arrangement for fostering revolutionary movement in Latin America.

Things haven't been breaking Arkansas' way in the battle of the military and civilian budgets. Paradoxically, Bill Fulbright's hope for spending more money at home might be improved if we were to fight the Cold War a little more intensively, to the point of making the Red world sue for a palaver that would end in a compromise in our direction, not theirs.

Snowy Morning

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

It is early morning at the Cross Bar Ranch and the snow is falling gently. There are fresh rabbit tracks visible from the bedroom window and you can almost see the rabbit hopping. Snowy morning: a good name for the right musical composition. It reminds me of Misty Morning by Friml and that, by opposing assocation, reminds me of music for suicides, a little newspaper gem Dawn brought to my attention yesterday.

Yes, the suicide rate continues to climb in these United States because we never had it so good and I suppose it is right and fitting for suicides to have a little music to make the transition easy. But what a waste. Music is for living and so is life. I wonder how many potential suicides would find themselves cleansed of the anger that motivates them if they spent a few days in this strange and lovely world of the Cross Bar Ranch.

There is also a strange and lovely world in each home across the country if the inhabitants will only recognize it for what it is. Recognition brings forth new values to be examined and evaluated, new areas of potential happiness, new worries and concerns, new and different responsibilities and new interests, and all of these things and more come into being with each new day even if you've lived in the same house for 40 years or more, or in the same neighborhood.

Every day is NEW, fresh, bright and shining and eager to see what you will make of it and the next day and the next. This is a fact at the Cross Bar Ranch and in Colorado Springs and Santa Ana, Anaheim, Odessa, Texas and Lima, Ohio, whether you realize it or not.

To some people nothing ever comes up roses. I know a man who is angry because Dawn gets up every two hours during the nights to stoke the fires to keep this old ranch house warm. He's not really concerned about my wife, you understand; he just dislikes the idea that any man can have it so good. Actually, he doesn't think I'm telling the truth.

Have you ever noticed that the farm and ranch population has such a low suicide rate you can hardly find it? I've talked with or listened to farmers and ranchers who, with a little urging, gave evidence of profound philosophic thinking; philosophic thinking based upon the laws of nature.

I suppose a farmer is first of all a gambler and you find philosophers among non compulsive gamblers, too. A farmer faces each new day knowing that nature can really take him to the cleaners in a fashion which cannot be duplicated by Ray Waugh in Abilene, Texas. To shorten the odds against him, the farmer makes a tight book on the laws of nature, then backs his judgment and gets a few things going for him. To give himself a better break in the odds, there is a garden patch, a wife who loves the farm and children who have been brought up understanding the private property concept and respect for their elders, except when the farm falls into the government subsidy classification, in which case it can hardly be called a farm.

Now, don't get me wrong. I'm not suggesting that everybody should get back to the farm. What a mess that would be. I am suggesting, however, that if people would pay more attention to the laws of nature, they would have a better chance for happiness wherever they live. Take a look at one simple set of facts. The sun rises and sets whether you can see it or not. When you're listening on radio or TV to the idiocies pronounced by experts on foreign affairs, the market, mental health, socialized medicine or any one of a hundred subjects and you begin to feel dull and depressed, remember this; neither the Congress or president of the government of this country, or any other ruler, can change one law of nature. Oh yes, a few psychotic rulers have tried but the sun just didn't pay a bit of attention and so it is with freedom. Your RIGHT to be free remains. This is truth.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

CHARITY

To the Editor:

The editorial loot of January 8 is truly a valiant one and food for thought if it were studied and applied along with the 13th chapter of I Cor. it would save and change the world and it would become a paradise and by reading this short chapter one can see and understand that salvation is defined in it in one word, Charity.

And we find in the 3rd, 4th, and fifth verses that charity is not just giving of ones material possessions, but if one has more love for them than they do for God, as the rich man did, then they should give them all away. So they can concentrate their thoughts on God's spirtual wealth.

We learn from the fourth verse that charity is not a self-righteous, better than thou attitude. Perhaps in Mr. Lander's and the editor's case it would be if he has an opening of a position Mr. Lander could fill, he might supply his need by giving him a job. If Mr. Lander would not be too selfish to work at a living wage and at the same time have enough charity not to covet the profit, the editor, of necessity, has to have to keep his business going and keep him employed.

I started out to discuss that greatest and most important moral, charity. The third verse shows that it is not a human virtue but an unmerited divine virtue which must be applied for and adopted and practiced in order to be maintained.

There are people who are very devout in a form of human religion in carrying out the orders of the leaders but are void of the virtue, charity, which constitutes salvation. That the word says is of God. Not so long ago I read of a religious sect where some of them actually give their bodies to be burned. Some afflict and torture themselves. There is no evidence that such people know anything about the saving grace of God. St. Paul describes those people in Acts 17: 22-34. He said such ignorance God winks at.

Those who apply for, adopt and practice the virtue charity have salvation which gives on a balance wheel that causes them not to intentionally take advantage of anyone, and a trust and faith in God so that when your enemies through Satan come against you like a flood, he raises up a standard against them. This great virtue, charity, gives one discernment to know who are their enemies. If you have got salvation you are a child of God and Jesus said, "Satan's people hate them." They resent you. With all your faults and weaknesses, if you've got charity, your soul can be at rest. I Peter 4: 8 and you will want to occupy down here until he calls you higher.

Anyone who will take the time to make an official study of morals by reading God's word, the authority on the subject, you will find that the moral charity is the fore-runner of them all, and has to be adopted before the others can come into play.

Charity continues a change from one state to another and is the passport through the Pearly Gates. It is separate from religion as you will find from further study of the great book.

There comes to my mind an inconsistent law that concerns religion and involves homeless children. It does not permit of the adoption of children to anyone other than to someone of a religious belief of the child's parent. In the first place if the parent had obtained the moral charity the child would not be for adoption. If that law was changed and the people in charge of administering it, instead of making religion the issue, would devote their thought and time to investigating the character of the applicant for children to adopt, they would have a different pattern and crime would be greatly reduced.

The wise King Solomon said, "If they are brought up in the way they should go, they will not depart from it."

CORRUPT GOVERNMENT

To the Editor:

Why does the League of Women Voters assume Colorado Springs would have a corrupt government if divided into wards? The ward bosses they mention are found only in the big cities and I wish to tell them there can be corruption in the form of government Colorado Springs has, also.

I once lived in a town the size of Colorado Springs, which has their form of government. The property owners took their grievance to count against the city in regard to what they thought an unfair ordinance. The judge decided in favor of the people. Immediately the city got another judge to review the case which was then decided in the city's favor.

Also I once lived in a Chicago suburb which has the form of government some of the property owners are asking for in Colorado Springs so they may have more representation. There were five wards, each ward had two aldermen elected by the people, as was the mayor. Council meetings were held at night, which gave the people an opportunity to air their problems.

These men made their living at various occupations and received a mere pittance for their intent in city affairs and the welfare of the people. If one did wrong (which was very rare) they got rid of him..

Think it over ladies.

EXTREMISM

To the Editor:

What is extremism, anyhow? It is favoring what you don't want, by others. What you want is never extreme to you but to the other man it is terrible. I will illustrate by a personal example, if you will "please to excusen me." I was raised in Newton, Kansas, and during most of my life there it was under the prohibition laws. My mother was president of the WCTU for years, and a young friend of hers got so enthusiastic about the work of the WCTU, that she became president of it in Newton and later in Hutchinson she became state president of Kansas, which was her title for for many years, and her work was very good.

My father was a tetotaler, and fought the liquor business all his life. He had good reason to, because his father had operated a hotel in Pennsylvania where liquor was sold and father was taught to wait on the customers, so he actually knew what the effects of alcohol were. His younger brother became an alcoholic, and gave father much trouble during his short life.

I am writing about extremism. The people who have had extreme trouble with alcohol in their own families are apt to be extremists against it. Some people who do not know about prohibition in Kansas during the first twenty-five years of this century, take a delight in claiming that there was more liquor sold there than in states which licensed saloons, but those who know, and will look up the record of sales, find that not half as much was sold as since prohibition has been abolished.

The records show that there is more boot-legging going on now in licensed states, than used to be in Kansas during prohibition. It doesn't seem possible but it is so. The liquor dealers are often calling for enforcement against boot-legging. They pay high license to commit or should I say perpetrate the crime of selling liquor, and should be allowed to be the only ones, who legally can sell the stuff that debauches people and causes more deaths and ruined lives than any other one thing in this world.

Extreme. After Business College, at 19, I got a job in the Capitol National Bank of Guthrie, Oklahoma. That was before Oklahoma City got fresh and stole the state capital from Guthrie. I was collecting for the bank one day and landed in a doctors office for a collection, the doctor was making out a check, when I heard an awful screaming from a back room. "What's the matter Doc," I said. "Did you ever see a man with tremens?" said he, "lets go back and look at him." We went back and he opened the door and we entered a large room with a man in it who had been making all the noise. He had scarcely any clothes on, and looked terrible. As I came in with the doctor he ran to the corner of the room and crouched there in fear, muttering and crying.

The doctor quieted him and we stayed a little while and then went back to the office. "It will take several days for him to come out of it," said the doctor, "I thought it might be good for you to see the effect alcohol can have on a man. You are young and should know the greatest danger we have in our midst."

I am a man of many years, born in 1881 in Elmira, N.Y. eighty four years ago, have never used liquor, only part of one year I smoked some, but soon gave it up. When I leave this beautiful country, for parts unknown, it will please me to know that some young men and women may have been influenced to quit or never to have indulged in liquor or tobacco, through my influence.

No Substitute for Gold

A Statement by 46 Members of the Economists'
National Committee on Monetary Policy
In Opposition to a Reduction in, or Removal of,
Our Gold Reserve Requirements

We, the undersigned, members of the Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy, oppose the reduction in, or removal of, our gold reserve requorements because such a procedure would mean a further weakening in the quality of our dollar.

A reduction in our gold reserve requirements constitutes a move toward a weaker currency. A repeal of those requirements would throw this nation into a fiat money system, the weakest and most dangerous type of money known to man.

The present relatively low ratio of our monetary gold stock to our nongold dollars and the fears of other nations regarding the future value of our dollar arise from the profligate and reckless expansions of our nongold dollars and the widespread contentions that gold is an unimportant or unnecessary element in a good monetary system. To weaken still further the quality of our dollar is to make even more dangerous the position in which this nation now finds itself.

The correct solution is to be found in giving our dollars of all varieties the quality of integrity. Then the demands for our gold, in preference to the more convenient and economical substitutes, should tend to subside. To provide this quality, the gold standard should be instituted at the present statutory rate of $35.00 per fine ounce of gold. Such action should cause the government and banks to exercise greater restraint in the use of nongold substitutes, should induce the release and addition to our monetary gold stock of a large portion of the $12,672,000,000 of gold earmarked for foreign account, and should cause an exportation of gold to this nation.

There is no good substitute for a thorough-going gold standard and the restraining influences it exercises over governments and banks in the uses of nongold money and credit. Our present monetary difficulties illustrate the importance of that fact.

Conservatives Floundering

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

The events of the past few years have convinced me of one important truth: most Americans neither have any understanding of the concept of freedom nor do they favor freedom, except as an empty demagogic slogan. (Witness, for example, Hubert Humphrey's recent statement about how men will really begin to enjoy "freedom" under the Great Society.) To most people, freedom probably means little more than simply the "right to vote," with no attention paid to the free choice — or lack of it — in conducting one's daily affairs.

The "conservative movement" in this country has floundered precisely because it was built on such a foundation. Those who have become the leaders of the conservative cause (1) have no basic understanding of the nature of freedom, and (2) have assumed that the majority of the American people have a strong and inherent devotion to the principles of freedom. The conservative's ignorance of the principles of freedom was no better expressed than in the futile silence of Senator Goldwater's campaign. With the entire communications media at his disposal, with over three months time to outline and advocate the freedom philosophy, Senator Goldwater could talk only of the moral shortcomings of a handful of political hacks.

Senator Goldwater could not expound on freedom because he did not have a clear understanding of its content or meaning. The so-called "conservatives" have tried to build a patch-work of inconsistent premises into a philosophical movement and have ended up where they could only have ended up: in total confusion. To talk of defending the free market while advocating tariffs, import quotas, and adherence to anti-trust laws; to attack Medicare as socialistic while defending a lesser form of socialized medicine — Kerr-Mills — as a means of preserving freedom; to advocate state government coercion as an answer to federal coercion; all these are symptomatic of the gross inconsistencies that tie the conservative movement together into an unintelligible whole.

I am of the opinion that the freedom movement has suffered a devastating loss at the hands of these would-be defenders. Their contradictory and mis-understood premises have been offered to the public as the "case for freedom," and it has been found wanting. Many people who might otherwise have been attracted to the cause of freedom have doubtless been turned away by the total ineptitude exhibited by the conservatives conduct of the recent elections. The conservative publications and the better minds behind the movement likewise confirm the inconsistency of the conservatives defense of freedom. Even the name that these people have attached to themselves — "conservatives" —belies their lack of understanding of the whole situation. Freedom must be gained, it must be won — there is virtually none of it left to be "conserved."

Hopefully, the rational and serious advocates of freedom can now go to work and disseminate the only consistent philosophy of freedom, one based on voluntary action, absolute right of property, laissez-faire capitalism, and the renunciation of force. Such a philosophy cannot be riddled with exceptions and contradictions: it must contain a unified, coherent set of principles, and spokesmen competent enough to articulate such principles. For those who are interested in developing a consistent philosophy of freedom, I would recommend two sources for a very excellent background on the subject: (1) the editorial page of the Gazette Telegraph and (2) a pamphlet by Ayn Rand entitled "Textbook of Americanism."

Robert LeFevre once declared: "man will acquire freedom when he earns it, and he will earn it when he understands it." The freedom philosophy must direct its attention to the realm of ideas, to developing in men an understanding of what freedom is and how a free society will function, to the end that we may beseech others with the claim: "In your mind you know we're right."

How to Keep Well

CHANGES IN WEIGHT

Has your weight changed during the last year? If so, how much, and why? Many physicians ask these questions when examining a patient because the answers offer important health clews if there has been a gain or loss. Reduction may stem from dieting but is likely to be serious when it comes from improper digestion or absorption or from abnormalities in metabolism.

A drop in poundage may be the earliest sign of a malignancy. Emaciation is accelerated because the cancer behaves like a parasite and uses some of the absorbed food for its own growth. The situation is worse when the gastrointestinal tract is involved. Appetite wanes, digestion is disturbed, or diarrhea occurs.

Overactivity of the thyroid gland leads to a progressive decrease in weight, despite a ravenous appetite. Many of these individuals are nervous and shaky and complain of palpitation. Their metabolism is high and more of the consumed food is used up as energy.

Weight loss also is a symptom of diabetes, often associated with increased appetite and thirst. A lazy adrenal gland (adrenocortical insufficiency) causes diminished appetite, nausea, and vomiting, along with wasting of the flesh. These symptoms often come in attacks (crises) precipitated by an acute infection, injury, or surgery.

The alcoholic often drops 10 to 30 pounds when he drinks more than he eats and develops cirrhosis of the liver. Weight diminishes during infections, especially when there is fever. Victims of rheumatoid arthritis are prone to be thin and the same can be said of those with heart failure.

The malabsorption syndrome is a newcomer by name only. It includes a variety of older diseases in which weight loss is associated with no appetite, abdominal distension, muscular wasting, and abnormal stools. These people do not absorb the nutrients in food for a number of reasons.

Weight gain usually comes from eating too much. But a sudden increase may be caused by waterlogged tissues resulting from heart, kidney, or liver disease.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

DORMANT VIRUSES

H.R. writes: Is it true that cold germs lie dormant in our system and gain control when our resistance drops?

REPLY

This is possible. We do not know where the respiratory organisms and viruses go during periods when these infections are not prevalent. In most instances,)colds are caught from someone else.

KELOIDS RECUR

P.F.L. writes: Would a skin graft be advisable for a keloid scar?

REPLY

No, because new incisions would be required, meaning that another scar could form. Send stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet on keloids.

American Novelist Willard Motley Dies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Willard Motley, Chicago-born novelist who has lived in Mexico for the past 13 years, died Thursday night of gangrene poisoning. He was 52.

Motley's first success was "Knock On Any Door," in 1947, a chronicle of Chicago slum life. He was also the author of "We Fished All Night" and "Let No Man Write My Epitaph."

The writer had been in a coma since he was admitted to a clinic Sunday night with a gangrenous rectal cyst. His adopted son, Sergio Lopez, said Motley had nearly completed a new book tentatively titled "My House Is Your House." It told of an influx of tourists into a Mexican village.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rhode, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, was the first woman to be appointed to a high U.S. diplomatic post. She was minister to Denmark in the Administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Venice Gondoliers Demand More Aid

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The gondoliers of Venice threatened today to scrap their gondolas and take to motorboats if they do not get government aid.

The gondoliers' association, in letters to President Giuseppe Saragat and Premier Aldo Moro, said their "society for the protestion of the gondola" was entitled to a share of the government's profits from national lotteries.

A portion of such profits is distributed to benevolent and aid organizations.

Bill May Curb Pep Pill Traffic in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee has approved a bill designed to curb bootleg traffic of goofballs and pep pills. The action paves the way for consideration by the full House, possibly next week.

The measure would tighten federal controls over the distribution of barbiturates, amphetamines and other such drugs.

"LET'S GO METS"

NEW YORK (UPI)—If Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk is reported driving around with a "Let's Go Mets" license plate, it's only a prize he received from a drawing at the sports vacation and travel show at the New York Coliseum..

Houk's name was drawn from a drum Sunday by former New York Giant Bobby Thomson. Nobody knows how Houk's name got in there in the first place.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Twice Blessed and Burned

DEAR ABBY: I have been hurt so bad by my husband that I don't think I will ever get over it. When our second daughter was born and I was being wheeled from the delivery room into my regular room, my husband was waiting in the hall. And after seven hours of labor and a dry birth to boot, do you know what he said to me?" He said, "You are just never going to have a boy, are you?" How can a man be so mean and ignorant? He doesn't know it yet, but I am never going to have another girl, either. —ALL THROUGH

DEAR ALL THROUGH: When the new mother, the thoughtless father and the all-girl family return to normalcy, remind your husband that the MALE determines the sex of a child. And if he EVER again expresses disappointment because you bore him no son, tell him that HE can have the next baby—with your blessing.

DEAR ABBY: A woman who had been married for 26 years asked you if she and her husband should sell their large home and move into an apartment because their children wanted to come back for vacations with THEIR kids, or in case they got divorced. I would like to tell her that if her husband wants to keep the big house, she should tell him to do all the cooking and cleaning and yard work. After parents raise their children and marry them off, they are entitled to take it easy in a cozy apartment. If the husband is so crazy about doing yard work, let him go to his children's homes and work his head off. —"BEEN THERE" in BUFFALO

DEAR ABBY: I am really on the spot. I announced my engagement last December, but no wedding date was set at the time. I didn't send out formal announcements of my engagement. We have now set our wedding date for May 22nd. I understand that the wedding invitations should be sent out three to four weeks prior to the wedding date, so of course they have not yet been sent out. Well, a few days ago I received a very beautiful (and I am sure, expensive) wedding gift from someone who is not on my list to be invited to the wedding. Does this mean I have to send that person an invitation to my wedding? I don't feel that close to her, and if she hadn't sent a gift I wouldn't have invited her. Please advise. —ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Yes, that means you must invite that person to your wedding. Pity you were "trapped," but to exclude her would be unthinkable. P. S. That's a pretty sneaky way to get an invittaion to a wedding.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Curious In Cambridge": This is the church's ruling on wedding rings, according to "Elder Lewis Langworthy," Pastor of the Hollywood Seventh-Day Adventist Church:

"The church performs 'ringless' marriage ceremonies. However, if an individual wishes to wear a wedding ring to make life less complicated — such as a working wife who wishes people to know that she is not available, a ring is permissible. Simple and functional jewelry (watches, tie pins, brooches, etc.) are permitted. But strictly ornamental jewelry (bracelets, necklaces, earrings) are tabu."

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

West Germany Gets More Millionaires

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — The number of West German millionaires keeps on increasing. According to the latest count there were 11,663 two years ago.

The figure was published Thursday by the Federal Statistical Office.

The total two years ago was nearly 2,500 more than the 9,217 millionaires counted on Jan. 1, 1960.

A German becomes a millionaire when he accumulates a million marks, or $250,000. But 1,276 of the 11,663 were worth $1.25 million or more, and 440 of them had $2.5 million or more.

Even-sized bread cubes may quickly be cut this way. Pile two or three slices of bread neatly on a wooden board; cut through into thin sticks; turn pile; cut crosswise into small cubes. Toast in very hot oven 450 degrees until crisp.

Another Misprinted Bill Is Reported

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — A retired Tuscaloosa bank cashier, Edward E. Verner, has been saving a certain $5 bill for 12 years — and he says he's going to keep it a little longer.

The bill has an upside down serial number. Verner says it is similar to one a Franklin, Ohio, man has estimated to be worth $50,000 — if there are no others like it.

Verner disclosed his misprinted bill after seeing an Associated Press picture of the Franklin bill in the Tuscaloosa News. Verner's bill is dated 1950 series A and was printed for the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, District 6.

The former cashier said he spotted the bill when it came to the Tuscaloosa bank where he worked about 12 years ago. He said he has never had an expert appraisal of the bill, but local coin collectors had offered him as much as $20 for it.

SIDELINE: PIANOS

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Bill Rogers owns 35 pianos, but he can't play a one.

Seven years ago someone gave Rogers a piano. He refinished it and sold it. He acquired another and another and another until his business snowballed.

A machinist by night in the composing room of the Tulsa World, Rogers operates the piano business in the day. "I like to work with my hands and I take pride in my workmanship," he says. "We give a three-year guarantee on every piano we sell for over $100. To me it's more than just a way of making money."

Rogers has given each member of his family a job in the business, plus creating extra jobs for two of his fellow newspaper employees, and three other friends. His wife is bookkeeper and saleswoman. Son Trent helps refinish and deliver. Daughter Deborah plays for demonstrations and helps deliver. Don Kimes, an advertising make-up man, is the tuner; Marion Wood, a makeup man, is bench builder.

The U.S. Patent Office does not check on infringements of patents after they are granted; this must be handled through private attorneys and the courts.

Negro Beauty Pageant Scheduled in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Miss Tan America pageant, the first nationally coordinated Negro beauty pageant, will be held in Dallas April 7-10.

Local, regional, and state winners are now being selected through pageants in 66 cities to compete here for "Miss Tan America 1965."

Eliminations and semifinals will held at the Statler Hilton April 7-9. The girls will be judged in talent, evening gown, and swimsuit categories.

The final coronation pageant will be held April 10 in Dallas Memorial Auditorium. The winning girl will receive a screen test, recording contract, scholarship, and modeling assignments.

CONTINUES TRAINING

NEW YORK (UPI) — Light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano arrived here Tuesday to continue training for his March 30 title fight with Jose Torres at Madison Square Garden. Pastrano set up camp at Kutsher's Country Club at Monticello, N.Y.

Britons refer to the Bank of England as the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

Julie Newmar, who stars in the new "My Living Doll" series on the CBS Television Network, is the daughter of a former Ziegfield showgirl.
